TO OPEN O'HARA MILL PIONEER HOUSE SATURDAY

The O'Hara Mill pioneer house will be opened by the Moira River Conservation Authority at 2:30 p.m., Saturday, July 5th, as a part of the Conservation Week activities, July 5th to 13th, planned by the Authority. Representatives from the watershed's municipalities, government officials, relatives of the O'Hara family, interested guests and the public are invited to the presentation.

The public is also invited to the O'Hara Mill on Sunday, July 6th.

No feature of pioneer life contributed to the early development of Canada more than the sawmill. Its introduction relieved settlers of the laborious task of sawing lumber by hand. The story of the O'Hara family, who ran the mill and lived in the home, is typical of all Eastern Ontario pioneers and will be of interest to visitors of all ages.

The O'Hara Mill house has now been refurbished with articles of the nineteenth century. Also restored in the 35-acre site is a sawmill, complete with muley saw, believed to be one of two of its kind left in Ontario, a log school-house and a farm shed housing a number of pioneer implements.

As a part of the July 5th and 6th celebrations, the Conservation Authority has arranged displays of pioneer activities such as weaving, rug hooking, pottery and broom making. The muley saw mill will be in operation and Authority members may show log-rolling technique on the pond.

The O'Hara Mill park is situated three miles west of Madoc, with direction signs leading from Highway No. 7, via the Madoc by-pass, and from Highway No. 62, North. This is one of three public parks operated by the Moira River Authority. The others are the Price Conservation Park at Actinolite and the Col. Vanderwater Park at Thomasburg.

HOLMES FAMILY REUNION HELD

In Queensboro on Saturday, June 28th, the Holmes family gathered together to hold their 45th annual reunion in the old school house, now the W.I. Hall, where nearly all the older ones went to school at some time.

Around 12:45 the family sat down to a pot luck dinner prepared by the ladies, with eighty-three present. They came from Ottawa, Carp, Codrington, Stirling, Tweed, Belleville, London, Hamilton, Oshawa, Madoc and Queensboro.

After the dinner the young children were treated with suckers and played outside, while the older ones enjoyed a social chat and a brief business session.

After the minutes were read, the Secretary, Mrs. Holmes, gave a paper on the history of the Holmes family, as well as a summary of the Reunions held, the first one held in 1920, and the second held in 1921. All six brothers were present.

As Mrs. John (Edith) Holmes was celebrating her eightieth birthday the following Tuesday, all sang Happy Birthday and presented her with a card and gift.

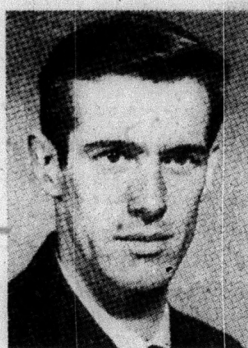

Gifts were also given to Mrs. R. A. (Elsie) Sager, for never missing a reunion, and Mrs. Edmund (Effie) Groves, for missing only one.

Mr. John Holmes of Stirling was presented with a gift for being the oldest man present.

Other gifts were given: one to the newest bride, Mrs. John Morgan (nee Sharon Cassidy), and a gift to the couple coming the farthest, Mr. and Mrs. L. Harris and family, from London, Ontario; Mr. Ernest Manchester received a gift for the largest shoes; Leslie Holmes, a prize for the most children present; Miss Bobbie Sager, the tallest girl; Wendy Harris, shortest girl; Leslie Woof, youngest baby, and many other prizes too numerous to mention.

It was decided to hold the Reunion in Queensboro next year. A collection was taken to help pay expenses ($24). The younger ones went swimming and the older ones enjoyed a chat, while some went to see the old home-stand of the first Mr. Holmes.

A happy day was enjoyed by all.

MR. CLIFFORD BROOKS, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Brooks, Madoc, recently graduated from the four-year apprenticeship course at Peterborough General Electric as an Electrical Test Technician and has also completed a course in Computer Programming II, graduating at the head of the class. Clifford received his education at Centre Hastings Secondary School.

Some facts and figures

That monolithic structure known as the Publicity Department of the National Hockey League, has issued its usual year-end barrage of facts and figures.

The Montreal-oriented dispatch reveals many interesting points, so interesting, in fact, I feel they must be published.

Right winger Johnny McKemie of Boston Bruins was the NHL's most accurate shooter last season. He scored 23 goals, a personal high, on 123 shots for an impressive 18.7 per cent of accuracy. Broken down, it works out that McKemie scored on every 42 shots.

His record represents the highest over-all scoring percentage by a player since 1964-65 when Camille Henry, then with New York Rangers and Chicago Black Hawks, had 24.1 per cent on 26 goals and 108 shots.

The Bruins were team leaders in accuracy, scoring a record 303 goals on 2,580 shots, or roughly, a goal for every 85 shots.

Chicago's Bobby Hall, who has let the league in shots on goal for six seasons and seven of the last eight, surpassed the previous high of 408 shots which he had in 1963-64 when he scored 43 goals. Last year he had a shooting percentage of 14.0 and now, in 32 seasons and 819 regular season games, the Golden Jet has had 3,898 shots on goal to score 472 goals, giving him a lifetime percentage of 12.1. This averages out to 4.8 shots per game and a goal every 83 shots.

An interesting statistic was that scoring the first goal meant more in the final outcome of a game than the advantage of home ice.

The team which scored the first goal last season won 63.5 per cent of the possible points. That is, during the 453 games in which goals were scored — there was three 0-0 ties — the team which opened the scoring went on to win 278 games and tie another 74 for 630 of a possible 906 points.

Comparatively speaking, the same team won 555 of a possible 912 points, registering 239 wins and 77 ties. This figures out to 60.9 per cent of the possible points for home teams.

The Eastern Division champion Montreal Canadiens and Chicago Black Hawks, cellar dwellers in the East, led in first goals with 43 each. Canadiens won 31 and tied four of those games, losing only eight, while the Hawks had 26 wins, six ties and 11 losses in the games in which they opened the scoring.

The least accurate team in the NHL was Los Angeles Kings, with a record of 185 goals on 2,423 shots for 7.6 per cent, an average of one goal for every 13.1 shots. New York had the most of any team, 2,846 on which the Rangers scored 231 goals for 8.1 per cent. By contrast, St. Louis Blues had the fewest shots, 2,181, but scored 204 goals for a percentage of 9.4.

In total, the 12 teams fired 29,312 shots during the 456 games played and scored 2,718 goals, for a percentage mark of 9.3. This represents 2,318 more shots and 242 more goals than in 1967-68. St. Louis and Pittsburgh were the only two teams which did not have more shots this past season than in the previous one. Of the increase in goals, 171 were scored by teams from the Eastern Division.

Hull, Mike Walton of Toronto to Maple Leafs and rookie Andre Lacroix of Philadelphia Flyers shared the leadership in game-tying goals with five each.

The most potent power-play and best penalty-killing unit in the league belonged to Boston, who scored 60 goals in 266 power-play tries giving them a percentage of 22.6. The Bruins were scored against 53 times in the 251 times they had a man in the penalty box. This means they killed 84.9 per cent of their penalties.

The worst power-play unit was that of the Los Angeles Kings. They scored on only 12.9 per cent of their chances. They also had the least effective penalty-killing squad allowing 33 goals in 254 chances for 79.1 per cent.

Wasn't that interesting?

Meaford, were the ushers. Floyd Curry was junior usher for his sister.

The reception was held at the Seldon Hotel, Owen Sound, the bridal party and the parents of the bride and groom receiving the guests. The bride's mother wore a dress of mauve lace with pink and brown accessories and a corsage of pink carnations.

Mrs. Anglin, the groom's mother, chose a white dress with navy accessories and pink carnation corsage.

The bride's table was decorated in pink and green flowers and candles highlighting the three-tier wedding cake.

Following the reception, the bride and groom left for a wedding trip to Eastern Ontario. The bride travelled in a shell pink dress and coat ensemble with pink and white accessories and a red rose corsage.

They are residing at 346 Cook St., Meaford.

Out of town guests attending were from Sydenham, St. Thomas, Toronto, Markdale, Guelph, Owen Sound, Madoc, Flesherton, London, Port Elgin, Kitchener and Courtwright.

AREA FARMERS REJECT SCHEME

Farmers in three of the four Quinte counties last week helped plow under the controversial proposal that rural Ontario back a general farm organization.

With almost all ballots counted, the province-wide plebiscite showed voting against the GFO was 49,531 to 38,583 — a vote only 43.8 per cent in favour of the proposal.

Provincial legislation passed in early June to permit creation of the GFO required a favouring 60 per cent majority.

Three of the four Quinte counties reflected the average provincial percentage.

Prince Edward County — with the smallest rural population — was the exception.

It voted for the issue 680 to 659 — an actual voting majority but a favouring percentage of only 50.8. There were 22 spoiled ballots.

Elsewhere, results tabulated in yes-no order with favouring percentages were:

Hastings — 672,909 (42.5).

Northumberland — 709,909 (43.8).

WEDDING

ANGLIN - CURRY

A double ring wedding ceremony on Saturday afternoon, June 14th, 1969, at Cook Street Tabernacle, joined in marriage Joan Edythe Curry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Franklin I. Curry of Meaford, to Mr. James Paul Anglin of Madoc. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Anglin of Madoc.

Spring flowers, fern and candles, with green, pink and white arrangements marking the guest pews, formed the setting for the marriage vows which were heard by Rev. E. J. Friesen. Miss Jackie Hipperson of Toronto played the wedding music and Miss Helen Wood of R.R. 3, Markdale, sang "O Perfect Love", "The Lord's Prayer", and "Saviour, like a Shepherd Lead Us".

The bride was given in marriage by the father. She wore an A-line full length gown in nylon organza over taffeta, scoop neckline with tiny self bow at neck, the bodice outlined in alencon lace and the same lace forming a lavish panel down front of gown and wide band on elbow length sleeves. The attached train fell from the lifted waistline at the back to a full sweep. Her headpiece was in four-tiered silk illusion, scalloped net, attached to small tiara of pearl and crystal. She carried a white bible, the gift of the groom, with red roses.

Mrs. Marjorie McKay of Meaford was the matron of honour and Miss Norma Curry, sister of the bride, and Miss Helen Niezpourk, of Toronto, were the bridesmaids. Their matching slim gowns were in bon bon nile green, chiffon over taffeta with float-away wattleau train. The gowns were designed with Swiss embroidered bands of roses at the Empire waist, high neckline and puff sleeves. They wore large white picture hats and carried white bibles, the gift of the bride, with pink streamers and stephanotis falling from the bible.

Miss Mila Friesen of Meaford was junior bridesmaid. She wore an identical green nile dress as the bridesmaids and a green box with green rosebuds in her hair. She carried a white New Testament, the gift of the bride, with falling pink streamers and stephanotis.

The best man was David Hennessey, St. Thomas. The bride's brothers,

When The Water Is Turned Off

U.S. engineers have diverted water from the American Falls to the Horseshoe Falls on the Canadian side at Niagara Falls in an effort to clean the rock and shale from the floor and to prevent additional erosion. Some water is allowed to trickle over the edge and sprinklers are used to keep the rock from drying out and crumbling. Niagara Falls is classed as one of the wonders of the world. — TTS Photos

Canada is an adolescent

Well, give or take a day or two, and Canada is 162 years old. A man of that age is an adolescent, either wise or senile, dignified or drooping. A country of that age is just a pup.

Question: Is Canada senile and drooping, at the age of a pup? Some think so. I don't.

More than anything, our country is an adolescent. It has all the best and worst features of that peculiar breed.

It is easily fired to jealousy, self-doubting, suspicious, lacking in self-confidence, shy one minute and bold as brass the next, opinionated without knowing much, conformist and rebellious, anxious for approval and deeply wounded when it is not understood, idealistic and materialistic. In short, a typical teenager, all mixed up. Tremendous potential, but no clear idea of where it is going.

Older brother, who used to seem content to work the farm and go to church, has gone all weird. He gets sore now when you call him the old nickname like Peasoup or Froggy. He demands a voice in management of the farm and threatens to leave and set up on his own, if he doesn't get it.

It's probably because he has fallen in with bad company — a gang interested in bombs and folk-singing and poetry and freedom and all that sort of disturbing stuff.

Little brother, who used to be content to sit in his playpen and feed on scraps, and be happy if his diapers were changed once in a while, has also become belligerent.

Instead of smiling when you give him a morsel, he has taken to blowing on his Kah-Tineta Horn and rattling the bars of his cage, uh, playpen, and scowling and hollering "Discrimination!" if he doesn't get a share of the goodies — right now.

Second cousins out west, up to their ears in wheat and oil and $1.69 steaks, are also deeply and vocally resentful because Grampa told their fathers, "Go West, young punks, go West." They feel that they should still get a cut of the old family farm's income, back East.

Down East, Uncle Hiram is fed up with fishing and rum, and is sending his sons and daughters to visit, permanently, as soon as they are old enough.

Even up North, those ex-Siberian cousins who were here first are beginning to bellow instead of grin happily. Not content with having ruined the sleigh-dog industry, they want jam on their blubber.

Right in the heart of the country, Uncle Charlie, smooth and debonair as ever, is patting everyone on the back with one hand and lifting his wallet with the other.

In Ottawa, Daddy, who has taken to wearing his hair in a peculiar way and being photographed with striking young ladies, is saying things, as he always did, which sound very profound, until you try to remember what he said.

No wonder Canada is an adolescent: up-tight, bewildered, belligerent. He's beginning to feel as though he comes from a broken home. And he feels pretty rotten when he thinks of the good old days when the family was one big happy family.

He's glad for his cousins out West, though he's switched to fish and poultry. He's leery of his older brother, who's become so hard to get along with. He's sorry for his Uncle Hiram's kids, but wishes there weren't so many of them coming to visit.

He wishes the kid brother in the playpen would stop rattling the bars and climb out and help feed the chickens. And that Uncle Charlie wasn't so slick, and that Daddy, up in Ottawa, would stop giving him an allowance and then borrowing most of it back, without interest.

Perhaps most of all, he wishes Uncle Sam would stop being so avuncular and at the same time bellicose. Sometimes, he wishes he still had a Momma.

Today, it's tough to be an adolescent.

REMINISCING

Taken from the Review files of 50, 45 and 15 years ago.

50 YEARS AGO June 26th., 1919.

After a temporary lull in active mining operations, due to the large stock of ore which the manufacturer had on hand at the cessation of hostilities the Canadian Sulphur Ore Co. has resumed operations this week. Today, three carloads of ore are being shipped from Queensboro and present contracts are for two thousand tons per month. A large number of men are being engaged at once and the mine will be continuously operated. This is the first indication that the temporary lull in mining operations will be short-lived. Mining men who are in a position to know the conditions predict a bright future for Hastings mining.

Weddings — On Saturday, May 29th., in Frankford United Church a pretty wedding was solemnized when Ana Mary, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Neil Woodcox of Frankford, was united in marriage to Cecil Ross Storing, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ross Storing of Ivanhoe by the Rev. C. E. Clarke. The traditional wedding music was played by Miss Carma Fuller of Trenton who also accompanied the soloist, Miss Shirley Woodcox, cousin of the bride. The attendants were Mrs. Jean Woodcox as matron of honor, Mrs. Edith Rushlow and Miss Marjorie Bartman as bridesmaids and little Miss Lennie Workman as flower girl. The groomsmen were Mr. Keith Woodcox of Frankford, and Master Gary Woodcox was ring-bearer.

Springbrook was the scene of the wedding on Saturday, June 12th., when Vera Lillian, daughter of Mr. Allan Morrison and the late Mrs. Morrison was united in marriage to Mr. Thomas Lorne Willman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Willman of Madoc, Rev. H. E. Beare officiating. The attendants were Eileen Willman, sister of the bride, and Mr. Roy Willman.

CANADIAN RED CROSS ANXIOUS TO PUT MESSAGE ACROSS

Today, the public is exposed to a multitude of messages about the benefits of this product or that service, and many business corporations spend considerable time and effort to discover the best way to "get the message across". The Canadian Red Cross Society is equally anxious to get its message about water safety across to the Canadian people, of whom 1,186 died by drowning last year.

Through varied programme that ranges from beginners' swimming courses to instructor training, the Red Cross covers all aspects of water safety. It is playing a large part in helping to reduce Canada's annual drowning toll by teaching the necessary skills to meet emergency situations. This knowledge, however, will not prevent accidents caused by carelessness. Last year, 212 children under 12 years of age were drowned because they were unsupervised while playing in or near the water. A toddler can drown in moments, if he falls face down in a few inches of water and a small child playing with an inflated toy in the water can be carried very quickly into danger by a light gust of wind.

Adults also can be careless about their own safety. How often have we seen the show-off who is determined to swim across the lake because he has done it many times before... but forgets that was when he was 20 years younger. Or the party cut-up who thinks it is a big joke to push someone into the swimming pool or off a dock.

Water sports are fun and provide healthy recreation for people of all ages. But the basic safety rules must be observed if the dreadful annual death toll is to be reduced.

The Red Cross is working hard to get the message across that lives can be saved just by common sense. See that you play your part by using water safety sense at all times. Don't take chances. Be water wise all summer long.

SCHOOL SYSTEM MAY BAR RELEASE OF MARKS

Deputy Education Minister J. R. McCarthy said last Friday the Ontario Government may consider barring the public release of Grade 13 examination marks.

He said in an interview that school boards "should take the stand that marks are privileged information — both for the good and the poor students".

"If the individual wants to divulge his marks, it's his business".

Mr. McCarthy said the release of Grade 13 results is "one step away from releasing IQ scores — and there are all sorts of unscrupulous people who could make use of this kind of information".

About 44,000 students in Ontario graduated from Grade 13 this month. Public secondary schools in Metropolitan Toronto released the marks of all students who scored 80 per cent or more to the school boards. The boards then released them to the press.

WEDDING

CRAIG — ORR

The double-ring marriage ceremony of Sharon Audrey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ewart Orr of Madoc, and Mrs. David Murray Craig, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilmont Craig of Napanee, was solemnized in Parkdale Baptist Church, Belleville, Ontario, on Saturday, June 21st, 1966, at 2:00 p.m. by Rev. E. Penny, assisted by Rev. F. Vaughan. Peonies and lilies of pastel shades decorated the church.

Wedding music was supplied by Mrs. B. G. Foster and Mrs. Brenda Holmes was soloist and sang "The Bride Eternally", and "Entreat Me Not to Leave Thee".

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was lovely in a full length gown of floral lace, featuring a portrait neckline and bodice dotted with seed pearls and lily-point sleeves. The full tiered skirt, falling from the princess waistline finished the hemline in scallops and created a graceful chapel train. Her four-tiered illusion fingertip veil was held in place by a delicate peau de sole and seed pearl headress, and she carried a cascade bouquet of wobernathy roses and white stephanotis.

Mrs. Robin Mountney, matron of honour, wore a green sparkle bridal chiffon gown, featuring elbow puffed sleeves and an Empire waistline, from which flowed a shirred chiffon floor-length train. Similarly attired were bridesmaids, Miss Donna Craig, sister of the groom, and Miss Sylvia Mulock, of Cannington. All carried a yellow and white cascade bouquet of shasta daisies.

Flower girl, Lois Orr, sister of the bride, was dressed similar to the bride in white lace-trimmed fitted sparkle bridal chiffon, with a full skirt and carried a basket of yellow and white shasta daisies.

The groomsmen, Mr. Ken Merek, of Belleville, and ushers, Dennis Snider, Kitchener, David Phair, Napanee, Lynne Stoilker, Belleville, and Mark Orr, brother of the bride, were attired similar to the groom in white coats and black trousers. Cameron Craig, cousin of the groom, was ring bearer.

Receiving the guests for the reception held at the Madoc L.O.L. Hall, were the bride and groom, the bride's mother and father, the groom's mother and father, and other members of the wedding party.

The mother of the bride wore a brocade ensemble in pumpkin shade, with white accessories and a white gardenia corsage. The groom's mother chose a mauve lace dress with white accessories and a white gardenia corsage.

Master of ceremonies was an uncle of the bride, Mr. Arthur Orr, and special musical selections were rendered by Mrs. Gladys Demille, Mrs. Laura Wood and the Penny sisters, accompanied by Mrs. Bev Foster. Assisting the ladies of the Orange Lodge were: Ruby and Dianne Orr, cousins of the bride, and Beth Porter and Vera Wickens.

The bride's table was centered with a three-tiered wedding cake with yellow and white streamers and flowers. For the wedding trip through the Adirondack Mountain area, the bride donned a shrimp sleeveless A-line crimplene dress with matching organza duster, white accessories, and a corsage of white gardenias and stephanotis.

The couple are residing at Westport, Ontario.

Guests included Rev. and Mrs. Corbett, Orillia, Mr. and Mrs. Sraggett,

Orillia, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Orr, Toronto, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Porter, London, Dr. K. Orr and family, Sturgeon Falls, Mrs. G. Williams, Sudbury, Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Mitchell, Oakville, Mr. and Mrs. Reg. Doris Clark

Does anyone help you?

DEAR DORIS — Before I write you my problems, I'd like to know if the letters come directly to you only, and you alone personally answer them.

And please state your fee.

Problem Free
DEAR PRUE — Believe it or not, I get 10,000 letters a year from readers; so I do need a little help in answering them, don't you think?

But it is all very confidential. The girl who helps me is a skilled counsellor, and we talk your troubles over before suggesting solutions, especially if they are tough ones. She is just as warmly concerned about all of you who write in, as I am.

Then, of course, there is another wonderful helper who types out what we dictate. And not a word of your personal affairs ever goes outside of these people. Letters are forwarded to me unopened from the newspapers.

There is no fee. I only charge for the leaflets; never for the individual replies.

DEAR DORIS — You had a letter from someone who worried about old people living alone. Thought there should be some regular check-up organized, like a telephone chain. I agree.

Aside from the importance of knowing that an elderly person is all right, anyone living by themselves loves to hear their telephone ring or find someone at their door. It seems to me many of us have the time to do something about this.

We might just ring the bell and say, "Hello! I was just going by. Would you like anything from the store? Maybe I could get you a book from the library."

It wouldn't put us out much and it's bound to brighten the person's day. Who knows when it will be our turn?

Opportunity Knocks

DEAR OPPORTUNITY — That's for sure. Being busy people, we sometimes let ourselves off the hook by saying we'd better mind our own business.

Why not try turning in and ringing that doorbell?

DEAR DORIS — My parents are forever opening my letters. I am 13 and I would like privacy. I would be very happy if you would put something on the back of this envelope so that they don't open it.

Should I ask them not to open my letters?

Desperate Boy

DEAR DESPERATE — I'm sorry about that. Nobody should open anybody else's mail; it is the same as listening in on a private conversation. Makes you feel you are being spied on; that you are not trusted.

If I were to write "Private and Confidential" on the back of your envelope, don't you think it would rouse even more curiosity as to contents? I'm afraid so.

But perhaps when your Mom reads this she'll have second thoughts about just how well she is helping her boy to grow up.

Confidential to Ugly Duckling — At 22 you aren't exactly ancient; you probably have more qualities to attract an older man than your sister has, since she married so young.

Being older than she is makes you feel left behind, but I find myself hoping the responsibilities of marriage won't throw her. Don't go into competition with her. Your own type of fellow will come along and recognize you if you will just work at being yourself.

Confidential to M.I.I. Trouble — Perhaps you didn't marry the family, but they always turn out to be part of the bargain, and you just have to learn to cope.

In your case, this means asserting yourself. You are a grown woman, with two lovely little boys. Firmly take over your children's upbringing; and start right now with definite plans to get into a place of your own.

ONTARIO DEPARTMENT OF LANDS & FORESTS WEEKLY REPORT

FISH STOCKING

The planting of hatchery reared game fish is frequently considered the certain cure for all ailments befalling fisheries. While this is not always the case, fish stocking is still considered a valuable management tool. Fish rearing and fish stocking for various reasons has been carried on in Canada for over 100 years. The first Canadian fish hatchery was built in Quebec City in 1857 by Richard Nettle for the purpose of rearing Brook Trout and Salmon. The first Ontario hatchery was constructed in 1860 by Samuel Wilmont in the Newcastle area. Today Ontario has a total of 16 hatcheries, in which Brook Trout, Lake Trout, Rainbow Trout, Splake, Coho Salmon, Smallmouth Bass, Largemouth Bass, Yellow Perch and Muskellunge are raised.

Hatchery fish are stocked at various ages and sizes, depending on the species, the environment into which they are stocked, and the purpose of planting. The following planting purposes are recognized in order of importance:

1. Introductions to established new, self sustaining fisheries.

2. Maintenance stocking on a put-and-take basis in areas of exceedingly high utilization.

3. Replenishment stocking on natural populations.

Of the three purposes mentioned, the last one is the most widely requested by the public. It is also the one which gives the lowest returns for funds expended.

While fish stocking is still the most widely used technique, it must be kept in mind that other means of fishery management exist and are being utilized.

The Tweed Forest District contains 2,568 lakes, of which 2,077 are less than 50 acres in size. A significant proportion of these are located on Crown Land or have some other means of public access.

Small lakes managed for Speckled Trout fall into two categories:

(a) Lakes with road access. These generally experience considerable angling pressure throughout the year.

(b) Lakes accessible by portage or skidoo only. These lakes generally receive angling pressure only at limited times within each year.

Fish planting is currently carried out in the following ways:

(a) Hand planting: from skidoos, trucks and (experimentally) helicopters.

(b) Air Drop: this method is being resorted to in all waters to which ready access is difficult.

A temporary quarantine was imposed on the Pembroke Fish Hatchery, which supplies one third of the total Brook Trout available for the Tweed District. This resulted in an extended delay in the proposed planting of 65,000 trout. When laboratory tests revealed that the fish retained were suitable for planting, the additional period spent in hatchery ponds had resulted in advanced growth of the fish.

On June 23rd, Departmental staff carried out a test drop of large (7 per pound) Brook Trout. Investigation of the lake bottom following the experiment revealed that moderate fish losses were occurring. On the strength of this experiment, further air drops of fish were discontinued for 1969. Fish, which had been slated to be air dropped into less accessible hinterland waters were re-scheduled to be hand-released into lakes accessible by vehicle. This change of plan will result in an increased stocking rate on some 50 lakes in the Tweed District. A thorough evaluation of voluntary angler's creel returns will be made by December 1969, which will hopefully indicate whether the increased stocking rate of catchable fish will result in increased angling success.

Don Hunt

This is some democracy!

The eight-foot high wire fence surrounding the convention site was topped by barbed wire. Riot police shot tear gas canisters from the ground and a helicopter dropped tear gas from above as a crowd of demonstrators set fire to a wooden gate and a telephone pole.

A two-hour squirmish between riot-equipped police and 3,000 rock-throwing demonstrators injured three policemen.

No, this wasn't Chicago last August where similar events led to charges of police brutality and world-wide exposure for the anti-war faction in the United States.

The above events took place in Quebec City 10 days ago when Union Nationale party delegates kept Jean-Jacques Bertrand in power.

Unlike Chicago, the fact that barbed wire placed atop the Coliseum fence, the fact that 1,000 provincial police patrolled with riot equipment, the fact that demonstrators clashed with police, drew little press comment.

It is a sad commentary on our time that a political convention requires a police-state setting in order to conduct business without interruptions.

The scene in Quebec, if it had taken place in the United States, would have brought forth untold columns pointing out how the "sick" society south of the border has led to the necessity of a police state atmosphere.

Take for example this comment by Douglas Fisher on the Chicago riots:

"It always seemed to be a very young person who got caught. In one film sequence, on five occasions the police began cracking the skull of the youngster after the arrest had been made."

"Was it America or was it a totalitarian country? One could not tell until Senator Abraham Ribicoff of Connecticut, and a former Kennedy Cabinet member, jolted viewers to some perspective by pointing an accusing finger at Mayor Daley in the convention amphitheatre and demanded an end to the 'Gestapo tactics' and the 'reign of terror' by the Chicago police. It was America after all."

Certainly, the violence in Chicago was much more severe than in Quebec City. For one thing, the Quebec militia had the good sense — or orders — to leave the press alone. Nothing motivates the press to action like a police attack on one of their members. Cracking skulls of demonstrators is one thing — clubbing a working newsman is another.

But the similarity between the Quebec police precautions and those in Chicago are remarkable. Obviously, the Quebec police benefitted from the Chicago experience. They had a job to do — namely keep the mob out of the Coliseum — and they did it remarkably well.

A similar first-rate police exercise at McGill University a few months earlier resulted in few serious problems. Certainly the ingredients were there for a scene much uglier than Chicago. Unlike the U.S. police, the Canadian forces acted quickly and in small groups, thus avoiding large scale attacks.

When the protest demonstration was over, police finally revealed the master plan that prevented serious trouble. They had the streets carefully blocked off, reserves hidden inside and more only a phone call away. The same precautions were taken in Quebec City but for various reasons, it is doubtful if the real story ever will be told since it involved possible use of federal forces.

The demonstrators in Quebec City were primarily unionists, out to show that the Union Nationale party has conducted an anti-labor campaign, with its own civil service. Naturally, the opportunity was too great for the unionists and separatists to pass up.

Unlike Chicago, both serious leadership candidates declined to criticize the police precautions.

Apparently, it is now a fact of life that a few malcontents, be they separatists, anti-war protesters or labor leaders, can force the political leaders of this country to take steps to turn a convention into a police-state exercise.

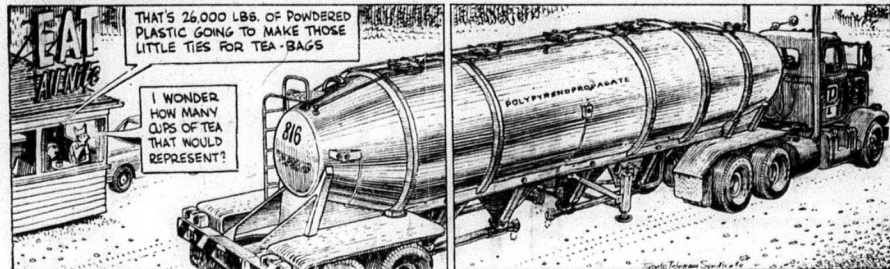

And threats from separatists can force a city to withdraw an invitation to the country's Prime Minister.

They call this democracy!

HUNDREDS ATTEND OFFICIAL OPENING OF PIONEER HOUSE

The weatherman was kind and a well-arranged program attracted hundreds to the official opening of the pioneer house at the O'Hara Mill Conservation Area last Saturday afternoon.

On Friday, descendants of the O'Hara family, numbering over fifty, enjoyed a family gathering and dinner and an opportunity to visit the refurbished house.

On Saturday visiting dignitaries, members of the Moira River Conservation Authority, and members of local municipal councils were entertained at a noon luncheon, catered to by the members of the Eastern Star. The master of ceremonies for the official opening was Graham Bell, Chairman of the Moira Authority, who welcomed the large number present.

Honorable George Kerr, Minister of the Department of Energy and Resources for the Province of Ontario, was the main speaker.

"Because of the geometric increase in population, several problems are being created".

The first one, according to the Minister, is overcrowding, but the destruction of man's own environment, and history is another big problem, he said.

"Conservation authorities are concerned about the destruction of environment and history, and it is projects like this that are preserving rather than destroying."

The minister congratulated those who were involved in the restoration of the O'Hara Conservation Area and was thanked by Ald. Robin Jeffrey from Belleville.

Other guests on the platform were A. S. L. Barnes, Director of the Conservation Authorities Branch; Clarke Rollins, MLA for Hastings riding; Dr. R. T. Potter, MLA for Quinte riding; Senator George White; Mayor J. Russell Scott from Belleville; Hastings Warden Donald Rodgers; Madoc Reeve, Allen Ketcheson and V. N. Styrmo, museum advisor of the Department of Tourism and Information.

Following the official opening, all were given an opportunity to visit the pioneer home. The muley saw was put into operation, visitors witnessed the making of cedar shingles and weaving and pottery making displays. The old school attracted many, as did the display of old farm machinery.

Entertainment was supplied by a square dance group from Stirling, while the children enjoyed fishing for speckled trout in the mill pond.

The day was a splendid success and many favourable comments were heard from the large number in attendance.

Where are the boys?

DEAR DORIS — I'm nearly 15 and I have never been out with a boy. I guess it's because of my mother who had to get married when she was 16, and now she thinks the same will happen to me.

During the school year she said she'd let me go out if I passed my grade nine. Well I passed, so she goes and changes her promise till my 15th birthday. But I know she'll still change her promise again.

I have been asked out a few times, but when I tell my mother she says, "What's so good about boys?" or "You have a lot of time." This is just driving me crazy to see and hear other girls talk about boys while I have nothing to say about them.

Should I go out secretly?

Over-Guarded

DEAR OVER-GUARDED — Your mother goes when she thinks: (1) That keeping you from dating is a way to prepare you for handling and enjoying boys later; or

(2) That a girl learns trustworthiness from a mother who repeatedly breaks promises.

Yet you are young and there is plenty of time. I'm sorriest for the girls who have been given too much liberty too early and couldn't handle it.

How about asking for a 15th birthday party with, say, three or four boys and three or four girls? Main entertainment to be dancing and pizzas in your own livingroom.

DEAR DORIS — When I was young and innocent I believed wholeheartedly in marriage. I gave up home, country, family, friends and faith, for the man I married. Now there is virtually nothing we can share. He has no room in his life for the home; nor me. Nor for our five-year-old daughter.

She is a lovely bright child, though she does have some problems (mainly thumb sucking and bedwetting still). At least she is having the finest education available, in a private school with music and art, and also ballet lessons.

But what I need is someone to go to and state a specific problem, and get a simple answer about what to do. Reading books on child care drives me up the wall.

Disillusioned

DEAR DISILLUSIONED — Now maybe you know what I mean when I stress the importance of dating people with similar backgrounds; nationality, religion, education. What on earth did you have in common?

Before your overworked little girl gets serious personality damage, do see one of the people who really care — the social workers at your local or regional child care agency. And settle down to work on your problem, with this help.

You know, don't you, that it is your unhappy marriage that has her upset?

DEAR DORIS — I've been housekeeper to a friend of my dead husband for the last 10 years. He is 72 and I am 56.

He has been good to me in the past, but now he has taken to scolding, accusing me of going out with men, stealing his money. The other day he told a visitor I went out with a man last year, got pregnant and had a doctor help me get rid of it.

As God is my judge, it's a lie. I can't go to church but what he says I'm after a man. I don't want to walk out because he has no one to look after him.

DEAR INSULTED — Tough and unfair, isn't it? But don't you realize this elderly male is senile? When the arteries to the brain begin to harden, people get queer notions, and it is common for them to suspect those nearest and dearest of all manner of foul play; I'm sorry to say.

Remember the good things, and ignore the insults. Go to church and any place else you care to. You are blameless.

Confidential to Too Much Bickering — Contrary to popular opinion, your daughter will take on another family — her fiancé's — when they marry. You can help or hinder her now.

Better forget all those little tiffs and see something to admire about that mother-in-law-to-be. Then both bride and groom will adore you. Time marches on.

Be careful of those hair sprays, ladies. Even the smallest amount of mist from an aerosol container can damage the delicate eye tissue. As a matter of fact, extreme caution should be exercised when using any kind of aerosol spray.

BOATING TIPS

According to Red Cross statistics 38 of last year's drownings in Ontario involved power boats. To help curb these fatalities, Red Cross recommends ten boating safety tips for boaters:

1. Buy a boat suitable for the use you want to make of it. Make sure it is large enough for the number of passengers you plan on carrying, and that it will handle the horsepower you wish to use.
 2. The rules of the road apply to boats as well. The drinking driver is just as dangerous on water as he is on land.
 3. Equip your boat with government-approved safety equipment: a life jacket for each person on board (see that each life jacket fits the person for whom it is intended, and that it is worn at all times); two oars or paddles; bailer or manual water pump; red distress flares; tool kit; first aid kit; fire extinguisher; and an anchor on 50 feet of line.
 4. Carry and use the correct lights at night.
 5. Before starting out, leave your "float plan" with the safety officer of your boat club or with a friend. They should be instructed to inform the search and rescue organization if you have not returned by a stated time.
 6. Never smoke while refuelling.
 7. Put your passengers ashore while refuelling.
 8. Check the weather reports before setting out and continue to keep in touch with weather developments through your AM or FM radio.
 9. Always wear a life jacket in choppy waters and at night.
 10. If upset, call for help and hang on to the boat until help arrives unless the boat is drifting into danger or the water is extremely cold.
- There's more information on boating in the FREE booklet, "Safety Afloat '69". Write to the Marine Regulations Branch, Department of Transport, Ottawa, for your copy. A complete safe boating course is available through the National Safety League, Ottawa.

End of the 'Bullet'

One of Canada's inherited traditions became only a legend recently.

The "Bullet" has been retired, never again to wind its leisurely way across Newfoundland. To many non-islanders, one of the last of the narrow-gauge railways in North America was the original Newfie joke — the 25-mile-an-hour clip for a staggering 22 hours of motion sickness could only happen in stories.

But to the residents, the "Bullet" was a way of life — the only connection with the capital of St. John's for such delightful sounding places as Black Duck Brook, Cow Head Horse Chops and Paron's Pond.

Progress, as it must to all places, came to Newfoundland this year in the form of air-conditioned buses, complete with "inside facilities." They even added stewards to officially serve refreshments, but unofficially to control the consumption of alcohol by the passengers, accustomed to the travel habits aboard the "Bullet."

"When you ride the Bullet, it is an experience that stays with you," confided a native who, under pressure, admitted that he has never taken it the full route. "You won't go more than five minutes before you find someone to trade stories with, or share a bottle. No one is ever lonely on the Bullet."

Despite the stories that were given international prominence at the time of Confederation, the train never did stop to let passengers pick blueberries. Of course, going up hill, the pace was so slow that a passenger could jump off the front coach, fill a pail with berries, and not rush to climb back aboard the last coach.

During the hunting season, the Bullet would pull out of St. John's on one of its thrice weekly jaunts, loaded with "sportsmen" on the look for moose and caribou. Each party had its own favorite spot and the train's policy, started by the Newfoundland Railway Company in 1898 and continued by the Canadian National Railway, was to stop on request. Despite all the additional halts, the train still managed to reach its final destination,

Port aux Basques — 22 hours later — on time.

In fact, since 1898, the total time for the trip has only been cut five hours and 45 minutes despite the addition of diesels and other modern improvements. But, of course, the original charter specifically stipulated that the train was "not intended to be what is deemed in England or the United States a first-class railway."

And prior to the CNR involvement, the creaky wooden coaches with their coal stoves and the light weight cars that forced trainmen to seek shelter in big winds, backed up that statement.

It is not a Newfie joke, but a fact that the railway relied on a local resident in Wreckhouse to warn of gale force winds in the Port aux Basques region. If his roof shook in the wind, he telephoned down the line and the train was halted until the wind died down.

The last run of the Bullet was originally scheduled for June 30, which would have meant train service disappeared on Canada's birthday. Islanders are still somewhat sensitive about relationships with the rest of Canada and Premier Joey Smallwood is said to have convinced rail officials that the timing would be unwise. Hence, the Bullet was given an extra day's life.

Despite the slow service, islanders have strong feelings about their train. When it was first announced the service would be discontinued, opposition members in the House of Commons complained bitterly. Walter Carter (PC, St. John's West) announced last November that he and his five Conservative colleagues representing Newfoundland, "have declared outright war on the Canadian National because we — the people of our province — have been given a dirty deal."

That "dirty deal" was buses instead of train, buses that will make the trip in 13 hours instead of 22. But to Newfoundlanders, the Bullet was more than a means of transport; it was an institution. Now it is only a memory, a victim of the efficiency that islanders see differently than the rest of Canada.

WEEKLY REPORT FROM ONTARIO DEPARTMENT OF LANDS AND FORESTS

CONSERVATION WEEK IN ONTARIO

The Province of Ontario has set aside the period July 5th to July 12th as "Conservation Week in Ontario".

Notwithstanding the fact that to the Department of Lands and Forests each and every one of the 52 weeks each year is "Conservation Week", we are most happy that such recognition is being given conservation, especially now with our high standard of living and ever increasing demands on our natural renewable resources. Our principal responsibility to the Public is "Wise Use" or "Conservation" of the Province's renewable natural resources, having regard for the best possible scenery, forest cover including game populations, open space including water access, Provincial Park areas and cottage sites, and, finally, fishing and boating waterways including fish populations for the present and future generations of grandchildren.

To achieve this end we must at times, enforce unpopular restrictions. Therefore, we would hope that many of the public will observe "Conservation Week in Ontario" by giving us the opportunity to answer such questions as why not a larger bag limit of fish or game or why not pick certain wild flowers when there seems so many millions of them around us or why not take home and feed a seemingly starving and cute little raccoon, fox or fawn deer. Please telephone or write Tweed District Office, Tweed, Ontario, or telephone Tweed, 478-2330, or better still, drop in and meet the staff personally.

During the week of June 22nd to 28th, 1969, officers of the Madoc Detachment, Ontario Provincial Police, investigated 11 motor vehicle accidents, ten of a property damage nature, with one personal injury accident resulting in one person being taken to the hospital for minor injuries.

There were 64 occurrences reported to the Detachment, 16 requests for assistance, six disturbances, with one theft reported.

There were 12 charges laid under the Liquor Control Act, 31 charges under the Highway Traffic Act, and 29 Traffic Warnings handed out.

There were 3,900 miles of area roads patrolled during 718 working hours.

There were 28 hours spent in Magistrate's Court, with Judge R. C. Jackson registering 33 convictions.

TRINITY U.C.W.

The General Meeting of Trinity U.C.W. was held in the Sunday School rooms on June 24th, with a good attendance of members and visitors. A piano selection by Mrs. Stanley Beaty preceded the opening of the meeting by the President, Mrs. H. Stickwood. Following a hymn and prayer, the minutes of the last meeting and the Treasurer's report were heard. Several communications were read by the Secretary, Mrs. J. McGowan.

The following recommendations were received from the executive and all three received affirmative votes:

- 1) sponsoring a family at Quin-Mo-Lac Camp for one week this summer.
- 2) Sponsoring a Primary School girl in Hong Kong for one year.
- 3) Paying for expenses for a delegate to the U.C.W. Conference to be held at Albert College on August 22, 23 and 24.

Members were reminded of Hazard's Garden Tea Party on July 9th at 2:30 p.m. Mrs. R. Taylor reported on recent improvements at the manse.

Mrs. H. Stickwood had charge of the program and introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. V. Zufelt, who is co-administrator of Quin-Mo-Lac Camp, along with her husband, Rev. V. Zufelt. The theme of her worship service was very appropriate and entitled, "God in Nature". The hymn, "This is My Father's World", was followed by Scripture reading, meditation, a poem, "At Sunset", and closed with a prayer.

By means of beautiful coloured pictures of Quin-Mo-Lac since it was formed until the present time and her personal association with the camp for several years, the listeners had no difficulty in realizing the value of this camp. One wonders if we fully realize the beauty and facilities of this camp since it is so close to us. Her commentary was informal and most interesting. Appreciation of the group was ably expressed to Mrs. Zufelt by Miss O. Ashe, and Mrs. H. Brintnell closed the meeting with prayer.

During the social time which followed, the ladies had opportunity to learn more about the camp through conversation with the speaker.

SAFETY TIPS FROM CNIB

Power lawn mowers can shoot a stone or piece of metal over 80 feet at 240 miles an hour. Clean your lawn before mowing and keep away from the front of the discharge chute. These flying missiles cause eye injuries, warns The Canadian National Institute for the Blind.

Be choosy what you feed your trash fire. Used batteries or old pop bottles, for instance, can turn into dangerous explosives when tossed on the fire. The resulting flying glass or metal fragments can cause severe eye damage.

LARGE CROWD ATTENDED ANNUAL RE-DEDICATION & WALK

Several hundred persons crowded the hillside where Canada's only Peace Pagoda is located in the Lester B. Pearson Peace Park at the Madoc-Tweed Art Centre on Sunday, July 6th, for the 3rd Annual Re-Dedication of the Peace Park.

Under blue skies the Pagoda shimmered in the sunlight. On either side were the flags of Canada, the United States, the United Kingdom and Japan. To the left of the Pagoda was the International Peace Column, erected on July 1, 1967, as part of Canada's Centennial. In front was the arena set aside in honor of Canada's war dead, marked by eleven white crosses.

After Mr. Kohaly's address, the four flags were raised by the Legion Color Party, under the command of Oscar Thurston, Color Sergeant from Tweed. Mr. Kohaly was introduced by the Rev. J. H. Thompson, Chairman of the annual Re-dedication.

Following Mr. Kohaly's address, he was presented with the First Annual Man of the Year Peace Award, by Roy Cadwell, Chairman of the Peace Park. The award was prepared by Jack Rashotte, President of the Belleville Legion.

Recognition was made of Stella Quinn, Sister Timothy, and Shirley Reid, the outstanding performers of last year's "Miles for Peace" walk co-sponsored by the Madoc and Tweed Kiwanis Clubs and the Peace Park Committee.

This year's "Miles for Peace" Walk was co-sponsored by the Legion Branches in the area under the direction of Ken Livingston, President of Madoc Branch, Russell O'Coin, President of Tweed Branch, Earl Brant, Deputy District Commander, Deseronto, and Harry Govier, Service Officer, Madoc.

A highlight of the Re-Dedication was the presentation of a Japanese flag by Kentaro Uemura, President of the Tokyo Kiwanis Club, who, with his wife, flew from Japan for the ceremony. Mrs. Roy Cadwell gave an original oil painting of the Pagoda to kimono-clad Mrs. Uemura, in appreciation. Mrs. Kohaly, who accompanied her husband, received a bouquet of red roses. Another bright spot was the reading of the peace park poem of Charles Andrew Tupper, by Ann Dunham, a student of Tweed-Hungerford High School.

A Guard of Honor, made up from representatives of the Legion Branches in District "F" flanked the speaker's platform, under the command of George Neilson, Madoc, Master at Arms. Other district officers in attendance were Eric Hogg, Peterborough, District Commander; Gerald Simpson, Brighton, Past District Commander; and Bert Bastedo, Stirling, 2nd Deputy District Commander.

After the flags were raised, this was followed by two minutes of silence in memory of Canada's honored dead. The Scripture lesson was read by Rev. B. Earle, Tweed, and prayers for peace were said by Rev. J. W. Price, Lindsay. Charles Pohl, President of Tweed Kiwanis, spoke briefly on behalf of the Kiwanis Clubs of the district.

The ceremony was closed with the benediction and the reading of the words inscribed in English and Japanese on the International Peace Column: "May Eternal Peace rule upon: 'May Eternal Peace rule upon: throughout the whole world, with peace and friendship between all mankind."

Slowly the large crowd made their way down the hillside, preserving in their hearts part of the dignity, sincerity and desire for peace of the annual Re-dedication Ceremony.

ASSESSMENT UNCERTAINTY

(The Toronto Telegram)

Ontario Municipal Affairs Minister, Darcy McKeough, was wise in introducing his new Assessment Act before the summer recess of the Ontario Legislature, thus giving MP's time to study the law before voting on it.

This is the legislation which removes assessment from control of the municipalities and vests it in an Ontario Government bureaucracy.

During their summer holidays legislators can expect to hear a great deal of comment on it from people in their home constituencies, particularly municipal politicians and officials. Few people in the municipal field appear happy at the prospect of losing yet another area of authority to Queen's Park.

Average citizens will tend to be little concerned as to whether bureaucratic assessment empires are to be built on the municipal or Provincial level. Their main concern will be whether their own assessments and taxes will increase.

Chances are that most assessments will rise dramatically since the new system proposes to assess all properties at current market value. Collective tax bills for a municipality shouldn't rise because total assessment goes up, but the net effect of the re-assessment will be to produce anxiety and uncertainty for practically everyone who owns his home.

Owners know what their assessments are now. The present system has been relatively stable. Allowing for continually-rising municipal tax demands, they can with some certainty calculate what their tax bills are likely to be a year or two ahead.

With all properties being reassessed, however, nobody can predict how his property will be valued and taxed in relation to other properties within the municipalities during the next few years.

Mr. McKeough has said all properties will be assessed at what he calls market value. He defines this as being sale price in the open market from a willing buyer to a willing seller.

The difficulty with this system is that it implies continuous and harassing change in assessment and consequently taxation. Home-owners have had enough to worry about in the past merely by observing the rise in municipal tax rates. Now they'll have two factors to induce anxiety: rising tax rates plus rising values of their homes. Both will mean extra dollars to be handed over to the tax collector.

The fact that his property increases in value means no benefit to the owner until he decides to sell. Effect of the new legislation will likely be to force homeowners to sell when values increase beyond a certain point, simply because they may not be able to afford the higher taxes that increased assessment will bring.

Mr. McKeough hasn't said how he proposes to keep assessments in line with continually changing market values, but the system implies continual re-assessment and increasing Provincial assessments staffs.

The Ontario-wide assessment organization will prove to be a fertile field for empire-building. Five years from now, it will be interesting to compare the total number of assessment employees, and their cost, with the present total staffs and total cost of all the municipal assessment departments.

Tales of the bathroom

We've come a long way from the cellar to the recreation room. And we've come a long way from the backhouse to the bathroom.

I don't know whether you'd call that progress or not. There's something to be said for both sides.

You can't store coal and potatoes in the recreation room, for example. A definite disadvantage. On the other hand, you couldn't have a shower in the backhouse, unless the roof leaked and it was raining. Also a disadvantage.

Fifteen years ago, I was suckered into a brand new pink bathroom, and I swore it would never happen again. Financially, it set me back about a year.

Perhaps one shouldn't swear about such things. They're transitory, after all, and besides, it doesn't seem to help much. This month I've been suckered into another one. Not pink, thank Zeus. We're going through our turquoise phase now.

Do you know how much plumbers are getting these days? Of course you do. And carpenters and electricians? Well, I hereby swear once more a mighty oath, and with all you witnesses, that I'll never install another new bathroom so long as we both shall live. Me and the bathroom, that is. When I cough out, my wife will be right into the insurance money for another new one, probably in deep purple.

What gets me is that there wasn't a thing wrong with the one we had. It had a perfectly good white cast-iron tub. (The only thing I enjoyed about the whole installation was watching those plumbers move the 800-pound monster down the stairs.)

There was nothing wrong with the tub except that you had to keep your big toe in the drain or the water would run out. And as I like to soak for an hour, with a drink, book and smokes, this was a bit of a strain on the bad knee.

We had a perfectly good toilet that required the services of a plumber only about once a month. We had a towel rack that fell off the wall with a tremendous clatter only about twice a week, usually when the rest of the family was asleep. It wasn't exactly the bathroom you'd get in the royal suite at the Chateau Laurier. The sink had served many generations and was a sort of gray-green. There was a bit of paint missing here and there.

I'm not an unreasonable man. I'd have gone for a new sink and maybe ten-twelve dollars worth of paint, and we'd have been right as rain, whatever that stupid expression means.

I said as much to my wife. And she said approximately ten times as much to me. Ceramic tile, already. Turquoise "fixtures." New wallpaper to pick up the turquoise in the toilet and the gold fleck in the new linoleum. A "vanity" built around the sink.

A vanity! All is vanity. I need a vanity like I need another couple of rotten kids. It's not really the money. You can't take it with you. Though as an old friend of mine, who is loaded with the stuff says, "If I can't take it with me, I can't go!"

It's the confusion of trying to co-ordinate carpenter, plumber and electrician. Either they're all working someplace else and nobody can come, and you just sit there in the wasteland, or they are all available at once and are bumping head and bums and getting in each other's way, at five-something an hour.

It's the endless decisions. Like where the toilet paper rack should be installed. Can you imagine anything more ridiculous than a couple of adults sitting, fully clothed, on the johnny and practising reaching for the tissue? Should it be on the wall straight ahead? Quite a reach. And what about little kids? I offered to bring in some kids to practise. Should it be beside the toilet tank? With my bursitis you could break your arm off at the shoulder.

Much ado about nothing. But I'll get my own back. When everything is complete, and up to my wife's rigid specifications, I'm going to demand that a whole section of tile be pulled out for the installation of a set of electric toe-nail clippers.

REMINISCING

July 3, 1919

The signing of the second Peace of Versailles by which the war between the Teutonic powers and the Triple Entente and Allied Nations took place at three o'clock Saturday afternoon. After months of conference, which at times seemed likely to bring dissensions among the victors, Germans were forced to accept a peace which gives its allies all their demands and places the responsibility of the war on Germany. The German Government, which carried on the negotiations, refused to sign the treaty and resigned in order to allow a cabinet to be formed which would do so. It is nearly five years since war was declared and in those years of destruction and wholesale slaughter, changes have taken place which have revolutionized the world. The chaotic conditions which have resulted are still in existence and we wonder when order will again reassert itself and what changes in man's condition will have effected from the stupendous sacrifices.

A meeting of baseball players and enthusiasts was held on Monday night for the purpose of re-organizing the Madoc Baseball Club. Mr. C. Whytock accepted the position of team manager with Mr. Tom Carswell as assistant. Mr. Colin Ross is business manager. The protested game in Tweed has been ordered re-played and Madoc has therefore won two games and lost one. There will be some changes in the team and it is expected that better ball will be played than during the past two weeks.

Family allowances proposed by the Federal Government would become effective July 1st, 1945, and would range from $5.00 to $8.00 a month, depending on the age of the children. Prime Minister MacKenzie King revealed today in a resolution to the Bill placed on the Commons' voting and proceedings. The resolution proposed that the allowances be paid from that date to each child in Canada under age 16, on the following scale — $5.00 a month for each child under 6 years; $6.00 a month for each child of six or more, but under 10 years; $7.00 a month for every child of ten years or more, but under 13 years; $8.00 a month for each child of 13 years or more but under 16 years. The resolution provides that the rates should be reduced by $1 a month in respect of the fifth child; $2 a month in respect of the sixth and seventh, and $3 a month in respect of the eighth and additional children. It also provides that the income tax reduction allowable for children should be reduced by an appropriate amount, based upon the family allowance payable under said measure.

The June meeting of the Madoc 4-H Calf Club was held on Thursday, June 26th, at the Armouries. The Vice-President, Keith Stein, opened the meeting with everyone repeating the 4-H Pledge. Elaine Wannamaker read the minutes of the last meeting.

The meeting was then turned over to David Foley. He gave a lesson on the history of cattle and breeding systems. A discussion followed both topics. After David had explained all questions, the group answered two quizzes on the topics.

The next meeting will be held at Christie Bailey's on July 30th. Before leaving for home, everyone discussed their calves and some of the problems they are having training them.

Here's the Answer

Glen May

The battle has begun

It has almost become an axiom in sport that players you trade to opposing teams usually come back to hurt your team in a variety of ways. These stories have been fabled throughout the years following individual and multi-player trades.

However, what may turn out to be the most bizarre trade in the history of the National Hockey League, has resulted in the probable collapse of one of this country's greatest sporting traditions and families. Maple Leaf Gardens and the Smythe family have been synonymous.

The Gardens has always been referred to as the "house that Conn Smythe built." To many people the Gardens had become more symbolic of Canada than the beaver or the little leaf which dresses the limbs of maple trees.

The name of Smythe has been hallowed in both business and sporting circles. Conn Smythe was a legend, a founder, a builder, a success, and above all, a respected sportsman who turned an impossible dream into a reality.

His contribution to this country and the NHL will be chronicled as a magnificent achievement in both business and sport. His efforts in the Sport of Kings has not gone unnoticed as his racing stable has helped to make Canada a respected country on the oval circles throughout North America.

Whenever Conn Smythe's name was mentioned or written people would use the verb "respect."

Some years ago Conn Smythe gave up part of his life. His son, Stafford, was given the golden goose. Young Stafford was handed Maple Leaf Gardens as his personal, toy, hopefully to follow in his father's large footsteps.

Father Conn and father's friend, Hap Day, were to remain close at hand, advising and consenting.

Give some people an inch and they'll take a mile, as the saying goes. Young Stafford saw visions of greatness. He was ambitious, and it proved to be a grievous fault.

He made a trade!

Stafford swapped his father and father's friend for Harold Ballard and John Bassett. And, or one reason or another, Stafford divided his prize. He kept one-third of the majority stock control for himself and gave away two-thirds, to Ballard and Bassett.

The shares of Maple Leaf Gardens now read, like this: Bassett, 162,275; Smythe, 153,425; and Ballard, 146,525.

And, recently, the man Stafford traded for, John Bassett, cast the deciding vote to oust Stafford as president of the Gardens. Also dismissed in the coup was Ballard, from his lofty position as vice-president. Smythe and Ballard retain shares giving them 40 percent ownership of Maple Leaf Gardens. But this 40 percent no longer gives them control. They need another 10 percent to get back into business.

The trumpets have been sounded, the charge will soon begin.

Stafford has vowed he will fight on. His plans are to take the battle into the board room, a place where often there is more blood-letting than there was at the Little Big Horn.

And what does Conn Smythe have to say?

"Stafford's got one asset — that's guts. He's my son, and for all the strain we've had, I'm on his side."

But as he took down his cutlass from the wall, Conn Smythe looked back into the past and snapped: "That was a bad trade."

OBITUARY

ALFRED LESLIE CONNOR
Belleville — Madoc

Following an illness of two years, Alfred Leslie Connor, 99 Lemoine St., Belleville, formerly of Madoc, died in the Belleville General Hospital on Tuesday, July 1, 1969, in his 89th year.

Mr. Connor was born in Belleville, a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Matthew Wilson Connor, and has resided in Belleville for the past 14 years. He was a hardware merchant in Madoc for many years, retiring in 1948.

He was a veteran of the Boer War, serving with the Fifth Canadian Mounted Rifles, and was a member of Branch No. 363, of the Royal Canadian Legion at Madoc.

Mr. Connor was a member of the United Church.

Surviving are his wife, the former Harriet Leah Turner, and one son, Arthur Harold Connor, of Belleville.

Also surviving are three brothers, Charles Connor, Vancouver, B.C.; Howard, Tweed; Russell, Waterford; and two sisters, Mrs. N. (Laura) Trueman, Arthur, Ontario, and Mrs. E. (May) Demorest, Madoc. Three sisters and four brothers predeceased.

The funeral was held on Friday afternoon, July 4th, with service conducted in the MacKenzie Funeral Home, Madoc, by Rev. V. Tozet.

A Royal Canadian Legion Service was conducted at the graveside, under the direction of Branch 363, Madoc, with Padre J. H. Thompson officiating. Last Post and Reveille were sounded by Bugler Wayne Bailey. Bearers were: Thomas Ross, Ralph Neal, Jack Scrutton, Donald Ash, Arthur Parsons and George Neilson.

Interment took place in Lakeview Cemetery.

COMING AFTER ALL POSTAL CODE

It might look like a license plate number or a shorter version of your favorite credit card number, but whatever the combination of numbers or alphabet chosen, it seems likely the Post Office will opt for a national coding system. The Financial Post goes on to say that the new system will be more advanced than the U.S. zip code system, but based on the same principle — to make all the mail in the nation move under one coding system. Communications Minister, Eric Kierans, said a national code would speed sorting and delivery of mails. The Financial Post adds that Post Office officials think the code system could steady spiraling labor costs in the Post Office, which, in the past 20 years, have jumped 428 per cent.

If you're a whittler, whittle away — away from your body, that is! This goes for kids, when you're sharpening sticks for marshmallow roasters, and for you mothers, too, whenever you're peeling vegetables. A slip of the knife can cause irreparable eye damage.

And never again will they say

"HEY DAD ... HOW COME THE OTHER KIDS ALWAYS HAVE ALL THE FUN?"

There's a lot to be said for the 1970 MOTO-SKI. But for the thrill that beats all thrills, consider this: you drive into your yard. It's wintry cold and a little after dark. The family doesn't know you're bringing home a spankin' new 1970 MOTO-SKI (nothing wrong with making that kind of decision on your own!). You walk into the house (yawn once or twice) and say to the kids, "Hey kids! How about bringing in those bundles from the back of the car?"

That's the kind of thrill that young folks remember best about growing up. But it's just the beginning. When you buy one of these 1970 family lovin' MOTO-SKIS, you'll make them like they're "the other kid". The one that always has all the fun!

RABID DOG BITES

BANCROFT WOMAN

An attack by a rabid dog on a Bancroft woman on Monday has spurred a warning from Hastings and Prince Edward Health Officer, Dr. C. R.
Lenk.

The woman was badly bitten and is now undergoing the painful 14-day anti-rabies treatment.

The dog, confirmed as rabid, was a stray, and destroyed says the health officer.

Rabies are on the increase in Hastings County and owners should exercise extreme care in keeping household pets confined, Dr. Lenk warned.

"KABOBS"

A kabob is a meat-on-a-stick. Select meat and vegetables that cook in the same time. Meats (i.e. beef steak and lamb) that take longer to cook than tomatoes, mushrooms and green peppers can be placed on separate skewers. Grill the vegetables on separate skewers about the last 10 minutes of the cooking time for the meat. Do not overcrowd. Meat should reach all sides of the chunks of meat. Use long, metal skewers or hardwood sticks. Special Trick: Soak kabobs in sauce or brush with tasty sauce during cooking.

CORNER STONE REMOVED FROM HIGH SCHOOL

While excavating at the Centre Hastings High School for the new addition, it was necessary to remove the corner stone in the older part of the building, which was built in 1934. In the corner stone, enclosed in a lead container were some interesting documents, a scroll, a number of 1934 coins, which had been in circulation, two copies of the North Hastings Review, a copy each of the Belleville Ontario Intelligencer, The Toronto Globe and the Toronto Mail and Empire.

The school was built in 1934 following the destruction by fire of the original Madoc High School built in 1888.

The Review of April 25th, 1934, under the heading "High School Burns to the Ground This Morning", said:

"Fire of unknown origin gutted Madoc High School early this morning. The building was a total loss and the damage is estimated at $75,000 and is partly covered by insurance. The fire was discovered about 3:30 by Mr. T. E. Burnside, but had made such rapid headway that it was impossible to save the school. Good work by the local fire fighters prevented the conflagration from spreading to the nearby buildings owned by Mr. Burnside. The school was built in 1888 by the late James Whytock Sr. Complete Junior and Honour Matriculation is offered to the students. All the records and most of the books and notes of the students were lost.

An emergent meeting of the High School Board was held this morning to make arrangements to continue classes."

According to the Review of July 4, 1934, Dominion Day was celebrated in Madoc by the laying of the corner stone of the new High School and a program of sports attended by a large gathering of interested spectators.

Dr. S. Eagleson was chosen by the Board to perform the ceremony of laying the stone, as he had served on the Board for a great number of years and had done much for the good of the school. In his address, Dr. Eagleson said, "This school is not just a local institution, but a county High School, and we confidently hope that in the years to come a large and ever increasing concourse of students from north, south, east and west will gravitate to this educational centre to receive a training and education that will fit them to become good and useful citizens of this great country of ours."

The secretary of the School Board, Mr. G. C. Moon, presented Dr. Eagleson with a silver trowel, and the scroll was read by Mr. S. B. Wright of Deloro, as follows:

"In the name and by the favor of the Deity whom we serve:— On the second day of July A.D., 1934, in the twenty-fifth year of the reign of our Gracious Sovereign, King George the Fifth, by the Grace of God, of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland and of the British Dominions beyond the seas, King, Defender of the Faith, Emperor of India:

His Excellency, Earl of Bessborough, being Governor General of the Dominion of Canada;

His Honor, Dr. Herbert A. Bruce, being Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario; Hon. R. B. Bennett, being Prime Minister of the Dominion of Canada; Hon. George S. Henry, being Premier of Ontario;

Hon. Mitchell F. Hepburn, being Premier-Elect of Ontario;

Campbell M. Wallbridge, being Reeve of Madoc Village;

George Jordan, being Warden of Hastings County;

"Dr. S. Eagleson, officiating at the laying of the corner stone of Madoc High School. Board of Education of Madoc High School: W. E. Connor, Chairman; G. C. Moon, Secretary-Treasurer; T. E. Burnside, Fred Nayler, Dr. S. Eagleson, John Robertson, Gordon Munro, C. N. Whytock.

Village Council:— Reeve, C. M. Wallbridge; Councillors, R. F. Bristol, D. F. Blue, John Armstrong, W. J. Hill; Clerk, A. S. Cochran.

Reeves — Frank Reynolds, Madoc; James Moore, Elzevir; R. S. Woods, Huntingdon; F. N. Maret, Marmora; S. B. Wright, Deloro; James Sprackett, Tudor and Cashel.

HISTORICAL PLAQUE UNVEILED AT MARMORA

On Sunday, July 20, 1969, an historical plaque commemorating the Marmora Ironworks will be unveiled in that community's Legion Park. This plaque is one of a series being erected throughout the province by the Department of Public Records and Archives acting on the advice of the Archaeological and Historic Sites Board of Ontario.

Sunday's ceremony, which will commence at 2:00 p.m., is being sponsored by the Women's New Century Organization and Mrs. Granville Meiklejohn will act as program chairman. Others expected to take part in the program are: Mr. W. A. Shannon, Reeve of Marmora; Mr. Clarke Rollins, M.P.P. (Hastings); His Worship J. Russell Scott, Mayor of Belleville; Mr. Lee Grills, M.P. (Hastings); Mr. John Wilkes, Reeve of Marmora Twp.; Mr. D. W. Rodgers, Warden of Hastings County; and Prof. S. F. Wise, representing the Historic Sites Board of Ontario. The plaque will be unveiled by Mr. E. D. O'Connor, a longtime resident of Marmora.

The earliest blast furnace in what is now Ontario was completed in 1801 at Furnace Falls (now Lyndhurst) on the Gananoque River and destroyed by fire in 1811. A second furnace was built in 1813 in Norfolk County by a John Masoh, who sold it in 1820. The purchaser, Joseph Van Norman, restored it to use by 1823 and operated it quite successfully until 1847, when shortage of fuel and ore brought about its demise.

At about the time Van Norman was making his purchase, on October 26, 1820, an Irish immigrant named Charles Hayes was heard before Council at York (Toronto) "on a proposition to establish iron works at the Crow River in the township of Marmora", and was granted permission "to open a road from Crow Lake to Louis Roebush's in Sydney . . . and to erect the works near to the said lake on Crow River". The government promised "to confirm a location of 1,200 acres of grant of land so soon as . . . satisfied that the works are so completed as to manufacture bar iron or hollow ware". A further 1,200 acres was promised as a source of firewood, and to assist Hayes in launching his venture, he was awarded a contract to supply Kingston Navy Yard with iron ballast.

A year later an embarrassed Hayes wrote the government to the effect that the ore bed which was to supply him with raw material, had proved not to be located in the tract intended for his use. The government accordingly agreed that Hayes might undertake the survey of three neighbouring townships at his own expense, allowing him four per cent of the surveyed acreage as a fee which he might "locate . . . in a manner to cover the iron ore". The ore deposit, which came to be known as the Big Ore Bed, was located in Belmont Township some four miles to the west, at present-day Blairton.

On June 11, 1823, Hayes petitioned for a patent to the 1,200 acres originally promised, "the conditions of the grant now being fulfilled". Evidently his furnace was now ready to go into production. He was awarded the tract, as well as the acreage for fuel, now raised to 1,900 acres. His patent to the 8,535 acres (all taken in Belmont Township) which was his fee for the survey earlier mentioned, was issued in July, 1824.

Hayes was apparently already in financial difficulties, for that September he made an assignment in trust of part of the property, including the site of the works, to creditors: Peter McGill (a Montreal businessman who was later to be Speaker of the Legislative Council of Canada); Anthony Manahan (who represented Hastings in the Legislative Assembly of Upper Canada (1831-41)); and Robert Hayes. In 1825 McGill took over the business and operated it into the following year.

After a lapse of some years, a new firm, the Marmora Foundry Company, was incorporated in 1831 with a Thomas Hetherington in charge, seconded by McGill and Manahan. This corporation remained nominally in existence until 1853, but the works had been out of operation "for upwards of five years" when a commission, appointed by the government, visited the place in August, 1837.

The commissioners' errand was to determine the feasibility of reopening the works with a labour force of convicts, it being proposed that the penitentiary itself be moved from Kingston to Marmora. Their report provides a detailed inventory of what amounts to a very early "company town". As described, the works consisted of "two furnaces for smelting iron ore, connected by a casting house common to both, with the wheel house and bellows house attached to each . . . the whole forming one solid mass of building of limestone, constructed on the face of a bank of the same material, forty feet high to the level of the bank. The furnaces, as conducted formerly . . . were found capable of making four tons of iron daily. In connection with the furnaces is a large and substantial stone building, containing two trip hammers and four forge fires, for the purpose of making bar iron. This factory . . . is capable of making five tons of iron per week."

"Next on the falls occur in their order, the blacksmith's forge, a bakery, the baker and miller's house, adjacent to a respectable grist mill, contiguous to which is a superior saw mill, newly built; and near thereto, on a small island . . . is a substantial two-storey building . . . fitted into a most complete tannery. Added to these are several very valuable dwelling houses, a stone store and offices, forming a more complete and substantial establishment than can be met with in all North America". There were also sixteen "workmen's cottages", a schoolhouse, a carpenter's shop and a Roman Catholic Church, whose ruins are today among the few discernible remnants of the entire complex.

The fact that Manahan himself was one of the commission may account in part for its optimistic view, for if the report may be taken at face value it is difficult to understand why the works were allowed to remain idle so long. Peter McGill, to whom ownership of the whole property apparently reverted in 1834, offered it to the government for 25,000 pounds. The proposal to take over the works was, however, rejected by the government on the grounds that it would be impractical to move the penitentiary, that the profits were unlikely to prove worthwhile, and that it would in any case constitute a trespass against private enterprise.

Over the succeeding decade nothing was done at Marmora. Then Joseph Van Norman, who had shut down his furnace at Normandale, purchased the property, and, in 1848, had the Marmora plant in production again. Like his predecessors, he was faced with the expense of hauling his product 32 miles to Belleville over a very poor road. Even the cutting of a nine-mile road to Healey's Falls on the Trent River, so that water transport could be used from there to Cobourg, failed to solve the problem. The completion of the St. Lawrence canal system, facilitating the importing of cheap British iron, dealt the final blow, and Van Norman in his turn abandoned the foundry.

The Marmora Foundry Company was reconstituted in 1853, one of the officers being A. T. Galt, later a Father of Confederation. The works were again in operation, albeit briefly, by 1857. In 1866 the company amalgamated with the Cobourg and Peterborough Railway Company under the title of Cobourg, Peterborough and Marmora Railway and Mining Company. The following year, mining recommenced at the Big Ore Bed, now renamed Blairton Mine, but the ore was never again to be treated at Marmora. It was now shipped to Cleveland and Pittsburgh.

Even this expedient proved unprofitable, and the mine was closed for good in 1873. The entire property, including the ironworks, the mines, the railway and some 30,000 acres of land were sold by court order ten years later.

THE KEY. If the Toronto Argonauts are to win the Grey Cup this year, as many experts believe, most of the pressure will be on the shoulders of quarterback Wally Gabler. Last year Gabler led the Eastern Conference of the Canadian Football League in passing percentage. — TTS Photo

Argos laugh a lot

Entering the catacombs of the Canadian National Exhibition Stadium this time of the year you immediately begin to feel as though you are a Lilliputian. Giant figures stride past, looking down at you.

The stadium is the home of the Toronto Argonauts. Once the inhabitants of this stadium were hailed as the Keystone Cops of the Canadian Football League. Their buffoonery on the football field would have made Laugh in Look like a biblical gathering at the Sea of Galilee.

The Argos were the Clown Princes of the CFL.

In those days when you entered their confines, awkward-looking figures stumbled about, grinning . . . always grinning. And it was not a grin of confidence, but rather, a grin of perplexity. Perhaps many of the mastodons in those days were deliberately drunk with the disbelief of actually being a member of a pro football team. After all, most of them were classed as rejects by bona fide pro clubs.

In the coaching area confusion reigned supreme. Well-planned programs were out. Haphazard disorganization was in.

Tension and indecision were the keywords of all Toronto Argonaut practices and games, from the coaching staff to the players.

Now that era has come to an end.

Organization, confidence, calmness and winning have taken over within the Argos' framework. A solid foundation has been built.

A visit to the catacombs the other day proved to be refreshingly different from the hostility and apprehension of days gone by.

The Argonaut coaching staff was sitting around with feet up on tables laughing. Incredible, you say. Perhaps, but nevertheless, they were laughing. They were joking about certain remarks made by a Toronto reporter in one of the city's daily newspapers.

Head-coach Leo Cahill was busy talking on the phone, his mini-cigar swerving back and forth. He was topless, not even wearing a pastie.

Line coach Frank Johnston wore a pale blue golf jersey with dark blue sweat-type pants. He was busy looking at diagramed play formations of opposing teams, making occasional astute remarks.

Defensive coach Jim Rountree curled up on a long bench clothed in nothing more than blue shorts and a grey sweat-shirt. He talked very little, but smiled a lot. His defensive assistant, Bob Gibson, sat reading. He wore a blue sweater with cream-colored pants. Offensive coach Gord Ackermann sat reading a newspaper wearing the same outfit as Gibson. Ackermann took a minute off from his reading to tape his right index finger.

Diagrams covered the two large blackboards with figures such as S.B.L. SU 8 BOOTLEG.

Quarterback Wally Gabler walked in. He was wearing blue shorts, grey sweatshirt, and carrying a playbook. He shook hands with a reporter, then looked around, and left.

The telephone rang. A radio broadcaster wanted coach Cahill. The broadcaster got what he wanted.

Each coach remained relaxed, answering questions and asking questions easily. They talked about opposing players and teams, always with a laugh.

Football has become a game of fun for the Argos. They now realize they can be winners. They've proven it.

As the reporter turned to leave, coach Cahill walked beside him and gave him ear a playful twist, followed by a wide grin. As the reporter followed the coach down the hallway to the player's area he heard confident laughter everywhere.

As the man once said: "Winners laugh and tell jokes."

Do cheaters prosper?

DEAR DORIS — I have just written year-end exams and saw two of my friends copying out answers from a sheet hidden under their desk-tops. I didn't cheat and could possibly fail.

I think cheaters do prosper; they get the good marks. They go to church, too, so they can't think God cares. I think He does, but what difference does it make? He can't show it.

I wish I were smart enough to cheat, because it seems to be the thing to do.

12th Year High
DEAR 12TH YEAR HIGH — Not long ago Columbia University's Bureau of Research revealed that 50 percent of a sample of 5,000 students had engaged in cheating in one form or another.

We know it is wrong. More important, it makes for an insidious build-up of ruthlessness. The fellow who copies at school, and gets away with it, may well become the businessman who puts over a shady deal and rubs his hands in glee.

If you don't keep your thinking straight all the way, the time may come when you are so far off the beam that the line between right and wrong doesn't stand out clearly any more.

Now is the only time you've got, to build personality.

DEAR DORIS — For the first time, I have saved enough money and plan to fly to Europe for a holiday. Would you have any travel hints for me?

CAN'T WAIT TO GET GOING
DEAR CAN'T WAIT — What a delight you have in store! Air Canada supplies these tips:

1. Travel lightly. Pack half what you think you'll need.
2. Give yourself enough time in any one place to really take it all in.
3. Respect the way of life of those you visit. Isn't being different what makes them interesting?
4. Travel courteously. Help the fellow next to you.
5. Keep eyes open for the unusual or quaint.
6. Don't forget your camera. My leaflet, "Make the Most of your Travels" adds other ideas. Write in if you want it, enclosing 10 cents and a large stamped envelope.

DEAR DORIS — I am 25, and I have fallen in love with a 34-year-old man. He is quite different from other dates and we enjoy quiet evenings of listening to music, going to shows or talking. He has bought me some lovely gifts.

My problem is that the subject of marriage has not been mentioned. Sometimes it's almost unbearable to sit beside him and not cry, "I love you".

Doris, is there anything one can do to bring on the all-important question, or should I just wait?

How Long?
DEAR HOW LONG? — Such agony! I'm guessing that some previous love experience had ended unhappily for your man. Once bitten, twice shy.

It's not time, yet, to jump the gun. But think about a little domesticity. Cook him a dinner. Find out his favorite dish. Jar his imagination a little about what it would be like in a home of his own.

Deep friendship can ripen into love; the very best kind. Chase after him, discreetly; but let him do the catching!

Confidential to To Jog or Not To Jog — If your heart is o.k., jogging is o.k. too, as long as you don't overdo it.

Jogging is an excellent slimming exercise; works wonders for legs and waitlines. If you can't get out-of-doors to do it, try on-the-spot running in your own house, lifting each foot seven inches off the floor with each running step. Start with three minutes a day, and work up to half-an-hour.

To Visitor — To become a Canadian citizen a person must:

- (1) Be landed for permanent residence.
- (2) Reside here for 12 of the 18 months, and five of the eight years, immediately preceding application.
- (3) Be at least 21, or married to a Canadian.
- (4) Be of good character, with an adequate knowledge of English or French, with some exceptions.
- (5) Have knowledge of what Canadian citizenship means, and plan to live here permanently.

Contest No. 2

1. Look both ways before you cross the street.
2. Keep from between parked cars.
3. Ride your bike safely and obey all signs and signals.
4. Play your games in a safe place away from the street.
5. Walk when you leave the curb.
6. Where there are no sidewalks walk on the left side of the road facing traffic.

I flew my Maple Leaf

Like many Canadians, the flag wavers in the United States often prove nauseating to me.

Turn on the television set to watch a baseball, football or horse race originating south of the border, and the stars and stripes flutter in the breeze on several occasions. During last year's Joe Namath Bowl in Miami, they even went so far as to have a ceremony of pledging allegiance to the flag.

As I said, such emphasis on the flag and "America the beautiful" has often left me with the same feeling that results from too much strawberry shortcake. That is, it did, until this Dominion Day, 1969.

When I was a youngster in Sarnia, Ont., July 1 was a big day in the community, a day when we hauled out the Union Jack and the Canadian Ensign and proudly flew them on the exception, either. Our street took on a festive look and it was a strange house indeed that lacked bunting.

This year, our family again took our new Canadian flag out of storage and erected the Maple Leaf, June 30. On Dominion Day, we watched it flutter in the breeze, a solitary reminder on the street that this country of ours is 102 years old.

Where 30 years ago, every house was decorated, today not one other flag could be found in a three block stretch. Two blocks north, one house did manage to fly a Union Jack — notice that many in this country still have not accepted the fact that Canada does have a distinctive flag.

Obviously, something is wrong in a country where the Prime Minister is not invited to attend a ceremony in his home province because of threats on his life; where politicians talk of Canada Day, July 1 and other such names yet in Ottawa at least, not refer to the event by its proper name, Dominion Day.

Several years ago, the House of Commons did pass legislation changing the name from Dominion Day to Canada Day, but this was turned back in the Senate and has never been suggested again.

Obviously what this country needs is not a cheap cigar, but a feeling of loyalty. The Americans may have their southern extremists, their Diecasters, their black power movements, but few can be found to criticize the flag or ignore the meaning of Independence Day.

And, what is more important, the Americans are proud of their flag, proud of their national anthem and proud to be Americans.

Unfortunately, the same can't be said for Canadians.

For years, we were told the reason Canadians were reluctant to give the flag the same devotion an American gives the stars and stripes was the fact that our flag was also the flag of Great Britain.

Lester Pearson changed all that but still the same feeling persists.

To pacify the French Canadians, the government talked changing the name of the May holiday from Victoria Day to Sovereign's Birthday. They needn't have bothered. The Quebecers call the holiday D'abord des Ormeaux day.

Now it is obvious, the same thinking that resulted in the May switch, is motivating people like Prime Minister Trudeau to refer to the July 1st holiday as either Canada Day or "our July 1st celebrations."

Perhaps the time has come to start all over. Columnist Dennis Braithwaite suggests: "Let's take Canada away from the British and away from the French — and from the Ukrainians, the Donkshobors, the Dutch, the Italians and every other foreign power that thinks it has a prior claim on the country — and give it to the Canadians."

"After all, the only thing that stands between us and peace, tranquility and reconciliation is that every same history of ours... let's start from now. Or from, say, February, 1965. What day was that? That was the day we got our down dear Maple Leaf flag. Remember? No, I didn't think you would."

Unfortunately, he's right, and on Dominion Day (or is it Canada Day) 1969, the Maple Leaf flag was sadly neglected.

ROBERT F. WEBER ELECTED PRESIDENT

July 2nd, 1969, Robert F. Weber, a partner in a Detroit investment and real estate firm, was elected president of Kiwanis International at the organization's fifty-fourth Annual Convention in Miami-Miami Beach, Florida, according to the president of the Kiwanis Club of Madoc.

Robert F. Weber

As leader of the international service organization, Weber will be spokesman for its 275,000 members in 5,600 clubs throughout the United States, Canada, Mexico, the Caribbean, the Far East, Western Europe, South and Central America, New Zealand and Australia. He succeeds Harold M. Heimbaugh, a Los Angeles attorney, who has held the presidency since August 1, 1968. Weber will assume his duties as president on October 1st, this year, since Kiwanis International changed the starting date of its administrative year at the 1968 convention at Toronto, Ontario.

Weber has been a Kiwanian for 32 years. Prior to becoming president of Kiwanis International, he served one year as treasurer, one year as vice-president and four years (two two-year terms) as a member of the International Board of Trustees. He has also been president of the Detroit No. 1 Kiwanis Club; Lieutenant Governor, and governor of the Michigan Kiwanis District; and both member and chairman of several district and international committees.

He is director and member of the Executive Committee of the Standard Federal Savings and Loan Association; past chairman and continuing member of the City of Detroit's Mayor's Building Code Committee on Enforcement; director, City of Detroit Committee on Neighborhood Conservation; and director, United Community Services Board, Detroit. He has also served as president, treasurer and trustee of the Grosse Pointe, Michigan Board of Education; and as trustee of the Village of Grosse Pointe Shores.

In addition to Kiwanis, Weber is active in civic and other services work. His efforts include a past presidency of Goodwill Industries of Greater Detroit, and current membership on its Board; a trusteeship of the Bishop Page Foundation, Episcopal Diocese of Michigan; and a trusteeship of the Olivet College. He is also a member of the Advisory Board of the National Kidney Foundation.

Mr. and Mrs. Weber have three children.

In addition to naming Weber president, convention delegates also chose a president-elect, two vice presidents, a treasurer, and seven International Trustees.

New officers and trustees are: T. R. Johnson, Capital City, Denver, Colorado, President-Elect; Steve A. Alford, Jr., Baton Rouge, Louisiana, and Lorin J. Badskey, North Manchester, Indiana, International Vice-Presidents; and Wes H. Bartlett, Algona, Iowa, Treasurer. Elected to two-year terms as International Trustees were: Roy W. Davis, Chicago, Illinois; Gene H. Favell, Klamath Falls, Oregon; Larry P. Martin, Atlanta, Georgia; Ted R. Osborn, The Blue Grass, Lexington, Kentucky; Charles M. Roberts, Fort Myers, Florida; and A. Frederick Rosen, Sunshine, Tucson, Arizona. Therkel Jorgensen, Tyler, Minnesota, was elected as International Trustee for a one-year term to fill a vacancy on the Board.

The fifty-fourth Annual Convention of Kiwanis International in Miami-Miami Beach attracted 20,000 people, Kiwanians and their families. It was the fifth such Kiwanis meeting in Miami-Miami since 1931.

Convention highlights included speeches by 1968-1969 Kiwanis International President, Harold M. Heimbaugh; John Edmund Haggai, founder of Evangelism International; Maurice B. Mitchell, Chancellor, University of Denver; Douglas Edwards, CBS News Commentator; Senator Roman L. Hruska (R-Nebraska); and the leaders of the two Kiwanis-sponsored youth groups, Phillip R. Kaplan, Downey, California, president of Key Club International; and Peter L. Andrus, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, president of Circle K International.

Delegates to the convention also adopted several amendments to their constitution; passed a number of resolutions upon which their 1969-70 community service programs will be based; saluted the nations of Kiwanis (there are now 29); honored the top clubs in the organization in each of five different size categories; developed new ideas in community service and club administration, and unveiled the theme for the 1969-70 administrative year. It is, "Get Involved in Community Service". The 1970 Kiwanis International Convention will be held in city of Kiwanis' birth, Detroit, Michigan.

GARDEN TEA PARTY AT HAZZARDS' CHURCH

Hazzards Unit 4 of the U.C.W. held a very pleasant garden tea party in the vestry and on the adjoining lawn of Hazzards' Church on Wednesday, July the ninth.

Each year it is a happy occasion, when this historical church once again opens its doors and members of its congregation and good friends enjoy an afternoon in the church and on its grounds.

The vestry had been specially decorated to represent a summer garden with a small maple tree as a focal centre and underneath it, a bird bath with artificial birds perched on it. Cedar boughs completed the room's decor and over the tea table among these boughs hung small Chinese lanterns.

Three young girls, Janet Curtis, Ardith McKinnon and Diane Lees, very capably served the guests at the several tea tables.

Outside at the bake table, homemade baked good disappeared quickly; and the guests left for home feeling well rewarded for having attended this mid-summer event.

Littering is not just a bad habit; it's an expensive one. Last year, it cost the Department of Highways more than $970,000 to clean up along Ontario's highways. Keep a litter bag in your car and help keep Ontario clean.

"RECREATION TIPS"

National Safe Boating Week in Canada is from June 29th to July 5th. This new safe boating campaign is being sponsored and promoted by the Canada Safety Council with the endorsement of the Federal Department of Transport. The Ontario Safety League suggests that a good way to observe National Safe Boating Week in Canada is for every pleasure boat operator to make sure that he knows the regulations and laws covering the operation of his boat.

The following are the Rules of the Road and Rights of Way on Canadian Waters:

- * When meeting, keep to the right.
- * When overtaking, pass on the right or left, but the boat you are overtaking has the right of way.
- * Any boat approaching on your right or starboard side has the right of way.
- * Non-powered boats have the right of way over powered pleasure craft, except if overtaking.

The operator of a boat gets practically the same treatment as when he is behind the wheel of his car in the Canadian Criminal Code laws which cover:

- Dangerous operation of boats and water skis.
- Impaired ability from alcohol or drugs.
- Failure to remain at the scene of an accident in which your boat has been involved.
- Water skiing from one hour after sunset to sunrise.
- Failure to have a second, responsible person in the ski boat as an observer.

A REMINDER ABOUT LITTER

Litter can create potentially dangerous situations for motorists.

Broken glass on the pavement can cause a blow-out. Flying paper can obscure a driver's view at a crucial moment. Obstructions on the road can cause a driver to swerve.

At the current allowable speeds on our highways, any of these situations could result — directly or indirectly — in a serious accident.

Drive Safely, and deposit any litter in an appropriate container — never on the highway.

Letter to the Editor

July 11, 1969.

The Editor,
North Hastings Review,
Madoc, Ontario.
Dear Sir:

We, who were so highly honored and entertained at the official opening of the O'Hara Museum, July 4th and 5th, wish to thank all for their many kindnesses. We are most grateful to Mr. W. G. Bell and Mr. J. H. McLeod of The Moira River Conservation Authority, to Mrs. Aileen Vanderwater and Mrs. Minnie Maines and their families, to the ladies who served us such a lovely meal at the school house Friday noon, and to all our friends.

It was most interesting to see the mule saw mill in operation and the cutting of shingles and the many other activities such as pottery and broom making, weaving and hooking of rugs as done in the early days. The whole program was so well planned and we were entertained at all times. It was a pleasure to worship in St. Peter's Presbyterian Church, where our mother attended, and it was indeed delightful to see your village and countryside again. There were fourteen in our group, and all expressed much appreciation for this generosity shown us.

Most sincerely,
Evan L. O'Hara,
Anne O'Hara Flister,
Emeline O'Hara Jahns.

TECHNICAL CHANGES IN TAX REDUCTIONS

Technical changes in Ontario's tax reduction system were emphasized this week in reminders issued by the Department of Municipal Affairs.

The system paid more than $120-million to homeowners and tenants last year to ease the burden of local taxes, and payments are under way for 1969.

New informational leaflets, available at Department offices and municipal offices, remind householders that the system in 1969 is much the same as last year — but with these main changes:

1. If a tenant moves out during the first eleven months of 1969, the landlord or his agent must pay him within 30 days the tax reduction to which he is entitled. The amount will be one-twelfth of the rebate for each month of tenancy. (Except for those cases, the deadline for payment of the reduction is the same as last year — that is, December 31st.)

2. A maximum of 50 per cent of municipal and school taxes may be excused through tax reduction. In other words, a cottage or other low-assessment dwelling will not have all its taxes covered; the amount of reduction shall never be more than 50 per cent of the total taxes.

The Municipal Affairs Department is again inviting anyone with questions to check with its special information group. These officers handled a heavy volume of enquiries toward the end of 1968 and in the first weeks of this year.

Most of the tenants with complaints however, turned out to be ineligible. (Roomers, for example, are not eligible for the tax reduction.) Of the 2,200,000 households which were eligible in 1968, only a few hundred had disputes that were not readily resolved.

Under the tax reduction system, municipalities reduce the taxes payable on residential property. The amount, based on assessment and the local mill rate, is between $30 and $70 in most cases. For home-owners, the reductions are allowed on their tax bill; for rented units, the landlords are allowed the reduction and are required by law to pass it on to the tenants.

The province reimburses municipalities for the total tax of reductions.

ORANGE ORDER OF DAY AT MARMORA'S "GLORIOUS 12th"

The invasion of the Orange took place last Saturday in the town of Marmora as 31 lodges took part in the celebration of the "Glorious 12th". Mern Bateman, L.O.L. 442, Springbrook, was a portrait of King William of Orange as he headed the two-and-one-half mile parade.

Prior to the parade, members of all lodges were treated to a hot turkey lunch by the ladies of L.O.B.A. 1193, Madoc, in the community centre.

The Havelock Pipe Band had the honour of being the first band, marching behind an honor guard of Marmora firemen. An estimated 6,300 people lined the route to watch the 2,100 marchers pass in review under steady rainfall.

On completion of the parade, all Orangemen and friends gathered in the fairgrounds for speeches and presentations.

Gordon McFarlane, treasurer of the Marmora Lodge, said Orange Lodge officers were pleased with the turnout. "The day was a great success... despite the rain."

Winners of the best Lodges in the parade were: men's Lodge, Malone; women's Lodge, Wallbridge L.O.B.A.; and the Juvenile Lodge from Bancroft took first in their division.

HUNTERS AND ANGLERS HUNT ANOTHER SHOOT

The first shoot for July was held at the club grounds July 13th.

The winners of the Turkey Shoot were: Laveryne Carman, two; Doug Donaldson, two; Lloyd Hicks, one, and George Brown, one.

The trap was very busy all afternoon, but unlike the rifle professionals, the trap shooting was "for fun". There were three relative newcomers and an old pro, Glen Nickle, put in his first appearance for the year.

The next shoot will be July 27th.

Next Sunday, the inter-club shoot some practise.

Being a woman is a terribly difficult task since it consists principally in dealing with men.

CORNER STONE

Members of Parliament: — Dr. A. T. Embury, M.P.; W. E. Tupper, M.P.; Mr. J. F. Hill, M.L.A.; Dr. J. A. Faulkner, M.L.A.

Architect: — F. W. Warren.

Contractor: — G. F. Haskin.

The corner stone of Madoc High School was laid by Dr. S. Eagleson in the presence of the Reeves of the neighbouring townships, numerous officials, Members of Parliament, teachers and pupils, and a large concourse of citizens. In the stone was deposited a number of our common coins, local newspapers, a Holy Bible, and this scroll.

Dated at Madoc, this second day of July, A.D., 1934: W. E. Connor, Chairman of the High School Board; G. C. Moon, Secretary-Treasurer.

All the documents found in the corner stone were in excellent state of preservation and officials are considering what should be done with them. Local citizens think they should be replaced with additional up-to-date documents back in a corner stone in the present building.

FREAK SHOT INJURES STIRLING GIRL

A fourteen-year-old Stirling girl is recovering from a freak gunshot accident with a fortunate ending.

Sandra Lachapelle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Lachapelle, is recovering in Belleville General Hospital from severe injuries to the mouth, where she was hit by a .22-calibre bullet.

Police say the bullet luckily fragmented when it struck the girl's teeth. Sandra was babysitting at the neighboring home of Mr. and Mrs. William Blakely when the accident occurred.

Police say she was making a bed and pushed it against the wall, jarring a single-shot rifle off a nearby rack.

The gun struck some object as it dropped, discharging five feet from the girl.

Police said, "unknown to everybody" the gun was loaded.

SELECTED FOR SECURITY DETAIL AT EXPO 70

Two members of the Ontario Provincial Police from District No. 9, Belleville, were among 16 men recently selected for the Security Detail at the Ontario Pavilion at EXPO '70, near Osaka, Japan, being held from March 15th. to September 13th., 1970. Provincial Constable Gerald Zwart of the Belleville Detachment and Provincial Constable H. Wayne Pickett of the Napanee Detachment, were the two successful candidates. Both officers are single, which was one of the prerequisites for Constables to qualify. Later this fall, the personnel selected will attend a 12-week course in conversational Japanese in Toronto and will depart for Japan in mid-February, 1970.

Constable Zwart is 22 years of age and joined the Ontario Provincial Police as a Cadet in June, 1967, after having graduated from Belleville Collegiate and Vocational Institute. He was later promoted to the rank of Constable on attaining his 21st birthday. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Dirk Zwart of R.R. 3, Carrying Place. Constable Zwart is feeling very proud of being given the opportunity to be part of the Ontario representation at this World's Fair.

Constable Pickett is also 22 years of age and joined the Ontario Provincial Police in June of 1968. He is a graduate of Oakville-Trafalgar High School and also attended Utah State University on a football scholarship. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Pickett of Oakville, Ontario. Constable Pickett is looking forward to visiting the Land of the Rising Sun.

THE GOOD DRIVER

As a commentary on the rising tide of violence, the Ontario Safety League quotes these tips to safeguard car drivers against possible "muggers", published in a U.S. safety magazine:

"When approaching your car always have the door key in your hand. This speeds up unlocking the door and you can quickly get into your car and then lock the door from the inside.

When opening your car door, especially at night, take a quick look at the space behind the driver's seat. If someone is there, stay out of the car. Quickly shut the door and notify police."

Your car has an ash tray. Please use it, the Ontario Safety League asks. A cigarette end thrown out of the window can start a forest fire that may endanger whole communities. Fire is easy to prevent, but hard to stop.

Always help the driver behind to pass, if he wants to. Keep well to the right and slow down, if necessary. But don't make a practice of waving him to come past. If you do, and an accident follows, you may be held legally liable.

"One way to comprehend the enormity of our traffic accident problem is to consider the economic loss, one facet of which is the cost of medical treatment. In Canada, fourteen thousand hospital beds are occupied permanently by traffic victims. Those who have struggled with the financial nightmare of trying to get a new hospital built in their community can fully appreciate how wonderful it would be if we started driving in a way that would release a large proportion of these 14,000 'reserved' beds". Quote from George Lacy, President of the Ontario Safety League, and chief engineer, Chrysler Canada Ltd.

In the U.S. about a million tons of rubber is discarded every year, in the form of scrapped tires. Research now being undertaken indicates that scrapped tires may become a source of valuable chemicals and of gas for heat and power.

The proposed legislation to introduce compulsory breath tests in Canada, in cases of suspected impairment, gives extra interest to Great Britain's experience since the introduction of such a law. The Ontario Safety League reports that in the first 12 months, compared with the corresponding period of the previous years, the number of people killed fell by 1,152 - 14.6 per cent. Serious injuries decreased by 11.4 per cent; slight injuries were down 10.0 per cent. During the 12 months the motor traffic index rose by three per cent, which would have been expected to result in a significant increase in traffic casualties, if other factors remained unchanged.

Motorists are reminded that since 1966 it has been an offence to drive with rear windows obscured — by snow, inside mist, or packages — unless the car has an outside rear-view mirror. The Ontario Safety League comments that it is unfortunate that the regulation had to be passed. Driving with no means of checking traffic conditions behind adds danger. The common sense of drivers should be sufficient to get them to sweep the snow off the rear window, without compulsion of law.

SURFSIDE SWEETHEART. This pretty little miss sitting on the beach is, perhaps, thinking that she is on some exotic south sea island watching surfers ride the mighty waves and wishing she was there. However, her innocence is overshadowed by dangers surrounding her. Take time to give thanks

There's quite a backlash these days from the middle-class against practically everything: welfare, subsidies, inflation, taxes and anything else that hurts where it hits.

The squawkers, and I join them once in a while, feel that there is a conspiracy among the government, the poor, the farmers, the skilled tradesmen, and almost everyone except the middle-class to grind the latter exceedingly small.

I'm about as middle-class as they come. Middle age, middle income, mortgage, kids to educate. And like all the other middles, I pay far too much in taxes.

But once in a while, I take stock and, despite the grinding, find plenty to be thankful for.

This week, I met a lady who is living on welfare. Her husband, from whom she is separated, contributes nothing. She has six kids to feed and clothe. There is no car, no treats, no frills, no little extras. Every month she is almost frantic with worry trying to make ends meet, just before her cheque arrives.

If the older children can't get summer jobs, they can't go back to high school, because they won't have any clothes. One boy has been remanded by his principal for wearing jeans to school. They're the only pants he has, and they're clean.

The total income of this family is less than many middle-class people pay in income tax. The lady is not well. Even if she could go to work, it would mean deductions from her welfare cheque. She's struggling desperately, but cheerfully, to keep her family together and give them an education. And she's doing it, but walking the thin edge of real poverty.

Why shouldn't the wheat farmer be subsidized? Many of our fatter industries are, through tariffs and special tax deals. The farmer works harder and longer for less money than anybody in the country.

Why shouldn't a skilled worker make ten thousand a year? He's going to pay plenty of it in taxes. How can the government control inflation when the people demand more and more and more, while at the same time everybody is trying to get his snout into the trough.

Why shouldn't Indians get help so that they can lift themselves out of the degradation and squalor that has been forced on them? Frustrated by poverty and lack of education, they either cling to the communal life of the reserve, or venture into the world, get a punch of discrimination right on the nose, and escape to drink. (Lots of them do on the reserve, too, but what else is there to do? Weave baskets?)

There's another group that I feel for, a large one. These are the elderly and the disabled. Sure, they get a pension. Try living on it, you middle-class cry-babies.

Happiest of these are the born bums, who've always lived in a shack, never paid taxes, insurance, and seldom rent. They're in clover, proportionately. But they're poor.

Perhaps the saddest portion of this group is the elderly couples who worked hard, never asked anyone for anything and saved for their old age. They may have a small pension from the job, or even some savings bonds.

And now, ready to spend a few golden years, their pensions and bonds are halved in value, their living costs tripled. They can't pay the taxes and have to sell the home they've sweated for and move into a couple of rooms. The reward for 30-40 years of honest toil. It's enough to make one join the hippies.

It's a great country. But next time you start whining because you can't quite afford a second car, think of the farmer whose wheat can't be sold, the plumber who cleans your stinking drains, the Indian who fought in the war and can't get a job, the doughty woman battling for her family, or the little old lady sitting alone in a furnished room, living on bread and tea until her cheque comes.

25 YEARS AGO

July 13th., 1944

For nearly twenty years there have been those in the Queensboro United Church congregation who cherished a dream that they might have greater building accommodation for their many activities of the church than their present one-room structure affords. On Sunday, July 16th., the congregation will lay the corner stone of an addition to their building, which, it is hoped, will provide for its future needs. The Sunday School today meets with its five classes in the one-room auditorium of the church. The new structure will not only provide separate rooms for class sessions on Sunday, but will provide a home for the Young People's Union, Women's Association and other activities within the church. The building committee, working under the leadership of the pastor, Rev. W. W. Patterson, are Messrs. Fred Rollins, Fred Sager, George Glover, Walter Tokely, Harry DeClair and John Thompson.

On Thursday afternoon, June 29th., the friends of Mrs. Wm. Blackburn called at Blakely's School, S.S. No. 16, Madoc, to bid her farewell, after her three years of association with the school and community. The meeting was called to order by Mrs. Harry Blakely. Mrs. B. McCarey read an appropriate address, after which Master Elwood Carman made the presentation of an electric lamp. The address was signed on behalf of the community by Mrs. Harry Blakely and Mrs. Frank Blakely.

Birth — In Madoc Village on Sunday, July 9th., to Mr. and Mrs. Jeffrey Brough, a son.

Marriage — St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church Manse, Belleville, was the setting for a quiet wedding on Friday morning, June 30th., when Dorothy Aileen Gaebe, eldest daughter of Capt. and Mrs. A. V. Gaebe, Madoc, became the bride of Russell Edward Empey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Empey, Eldorado. Rev. J. G. Hornsby officiated. Miss Ruth Plane, Belleville, attended the bride, and Mr. Dean Shaw of Eldorado was best man.

Death — Mr. T. F. Blue, well known hotel operator of Madoc, died July 6th 1944, after a lengthy illness. The late Mr. Blue, who was in his 73rd year, was born in Quebec Province. Surviving are his wife, formerly Miss Mary Campbell, one daughter, Edna, (Mrs. McCracken) and one son, Capt. Lloyd Blue.

15 YEARS AGO

July 8th., 1934.

On Saturday, July 3rd., about 75 relatives gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Robinson of Malone to celebrate with them their 30th wedding anniversary. The party was planned by Mrs. Percy Broadworth of Madoc and Mrs. Fred Rodgers of Belleville, and was a decided success.

St. Peter's Presbyterian Church was the scene on Sunday morning of a special memorial service held in memory of the late John Armstrong, a member of the church, and a highly respected citizen of Madoc Village. Mrs. Armstrong and her family of seven sons and three daughters, their wives, husbands and grandchildren were in attendance. Her son-in-law, Rev. A. Dudley Ward of Chicago, was guest minister. Special music was rendered by the Choir and Mrs. F. Heslip of Vancouver, B.C., was soloist. Mrs. Armstrong's oldest son, George, presented to St. Peter's Church, on behalf of the family, two standards and two brass vases, in memory of his father. Beautiful red roses were in the brass vases and a lovely basket of gladioli and delphinium were on the altar in memory of Mrs. Ed. West, who passed away four years ago. They were placed there by Mr. Geo. West and Mrs. Lattimer and their families.

Mr. Solomon Robbins, Durham St., rescued his grandson, little John Stone, 2 years old, from drowning on Tuesday evening at Lake Ontario, near Brighton.

Marriage — The wedding took place in St. Peter's Presbyterian Church, Madoc, on Saturday, July 3rd., when Rev. M. W. Heslip united in marriage Violet Winnifred Alvey of Toronto, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Alvey of Madoc, to Richard Kissell, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Kissel of Ayr, Scotland. The attendants were Miss June Kissell of Toronto and Mr. John Morton, also of Toronto.

Death — The funeral of Herbert Spencer Sills, Madoc, was held on Friday, July 2nd., from the MacKenzie Funeral Home, Madoc. Mr. Sills is survived by four brothers, George of Trout Creek, William of Nanapanee, Bruce of Belleville and Marshall of Campbellford.

"Son", a father once said to his growing boy, "just remember one thing: I know a lot more about being young than you do about being old".

SPACEMONK DIES. Bonny, America's 14-pound astronaut died suddenly, 12 hours after returning to earth. He was to orbit the earth for 30 days, but NASA officials aborted the mission because he was showing signs of "sluggishness and low metabolism" which scientists termed could lead to "serious deterioration". The space monkey was alive after splashdown. TTS-Photo

Manager

It gives me great pleasure to return to Southern Ontario as Manager at Belleville. I was born and educated in Brockville and have many fond memories of this part of Ontario. As you know, I have replaced Charlie Buckley, who was appointed Ottawa-Hull District Manager in Ottawa. Being a telephone manager isn't exactly new to me. I have held similar posts for several years at Smiths Falls and at Ottawa. May I say at the start, I shall endeavour to make our relationship a pleasant one. My job is to provide you with the best possible telephone service and I will welcome any suggestions that may assist me in this regard. In this column I hope to maintain the same high standard as was shown by Mr. Buckley.

The recent activities in Madoc area have been most interesting with your walk for the Peace Pagoda and the opening of O'Hara's Mill with a museum. It certainly gives me every opportunity to learn about and understand the heritage in the area.

It seemed that summer would never come, but now it's here and most of us are probably planning to spend at least part of it away from home. If there's a vacation coming up on your schedule, why not let the telephone take some of the hurry and worry out of both planning and vacationing. Before you leave, your telephone can "run errands" to the newspaper, bakery or dairy to stop deliveries. Newspapers and milk bottles stacked up on the porch invariably invite trouble. During your trip — especially if you're going by car — it's a good idea to call ahead for reservations so you won't be left without accommodations during this peak travel season. Friends and relatives that you plan to visit along the way might also appreciate a call telling them of your time of arrival. The local Yellow Pages in the different communities you visit will help you find a mechanic, a new fishing rod, a good restaurant, a doctor or dentist. The telephone doesn't take a vacation. It's always there to help you.

MOORCROFT REUNION

A hymn-sing in the one hundred and twelve year old church at Hazzard's Corners was the highlight of the 1969 Reunion of the Moorcroft family held on the church grounds. The July day was ideal for such a gathering when approximately one hundred people met to honour their ancestors, John and Agnes (Blakely) Moorcroft, who came to Canada from Drumminaway, Northern Ireland, in 1850. It was here at Hazzards that they worshipped, along with other pioneers of the community, first in the log schoolhouse and later in the present church building, a most appropriate place to meet.

After a bountiful picnic dinner, while the younger members enjoyed a play period, their elders spent this time visiting, reminiscing, visiting the cemetery and poring over the interesting family relics displayed in the vestry. Among these was the family tree, tracing seven generations. Later, in the church, all joined in singing some favourite hymns, with

Ross Moorcroft at the piano, and a solo, "Bless This House", sung by Boyd Moorcroft leading the singing. Business was conducted by Chairman Raymond Gunsolus, when plans were made to meet again next year, details to be decided by the committee.

A solo, "Bless This House", sung by Boyd Moorcroft, expressed the thoughts of those present, and the benediction pronounced by Grant Richardson, brought a memorable reunion to a fitting close.

MAN LANDS ON THE MOON

An estimated audience of 500,000,000 people around the world watched on television as Neil Armstrong and Edwin E. Aldrin, United States Astronauts, walked on the moon Sunday night. At 10:56 E.D.T., Sunday, Neil Armstrong became the first man to set foot on the moon, and as he did so, spoke these now famous words: "That's one small step for a man, but a giant one for mankind".

Aldrin cautiously followed Armstrong own the ladder a short time later and together they set out to start unlocking the secrets of the awesome new world they conquered.

But before the astronauts began setting up scientific gear, they took time out for a brief and solemn ceremony of the unveiling of a commemorative plaque and the raising of the U.S. flag.

Armstrong read aloud the inscription on the plaque which included the words, "We came in peace for all mankind".

In a moment dear to all explorers, they raised the U.S. flag and left it "fly" on the moon. The flag was fitted with special wire to keep it stiff in the airless lunar stillness.

One more formality remained to emphasize the magnitude of the first lunar landing. President Nixon picked up a telephone in his office in the White House and spoke directly to the astronauts.

The President gave his congratulations and those of the world to the Apollo moonmen and assured them of world-wide prayers for their safe return.

Carrying a portable television camera to beam back pictures of uncanny clarity, the astronauts took stock of their exclusive domain. Armstrong, the 38-year-old mission commander, gazed around at the stunning lunar landscape and radioed back to earth: "It has a beauty of its own. It's very pretty up here".

Armstrong likened the moon's surface to the high desert country in his home land. Later he and Aldrin dragged the television camera around in stages to share the panoramic view with earthbound watchers 250,000 miles away.

The two Americans walked slowly and warily at first, aware that one false move could bring instant death on the airless grey desert of the Sea of Tranquility.

But as their confidence mounted, Armstrong and Aldrin jumped, bounced and kangaroo-hopped in front of their landing craft, taking advantage of reduced gravity — one-sixth that on earth.

Then, as the astronauts scoured the moon's surface, the secrets came tumbling out.

Armstrong reported: "The surface is fine and powdery. It adheres like powdered charcoal to my boot... I go in only an eighth of an inch."

With television trained constantly on the astronauts, the dream of centuries became almost matter-of-fact routine as Armstrong and Aldrin dug into the moon's surface, scooped up dust and rock samples, and reported their findings back to earth.

Aldrin reported the lunar surface appeared rather slippery and when he drove a tube into the ground to get a five-inch deep sample, he said "it almost looks wet".

They reported seeing a great variety of rocks around them and worked hard to gather up as many samples as possible to bring back to earth. Aldrin said he found a "purple-coloured rock".

After a successful blast-off from the moon, the two moon-walkers were re-united with Michael Collins, who girdled the barren globe in the mother ship, awaiting their return, and the three astronauts started the long journey back to earth.

Splashdown is scheduled in the Pacific at 12:31 p.m., today.

ENTERTAINED AT BRIDAL SHOWERS

Prior to her marriage, Mrs. Mike Runnalls, nee Carolyn Trotter, was the honoured guest at a miscellaneous shower given by the community of Cooper at the home of Mrs. Gordon Chapman and a miscellaneous shower given by Miss Darlene Kelly of Queensboro. A kitchen shower was also given by Maud Deline of Madoc.

FLEMING FAMILY REUNION HELD

Zwick's Island Park proved to be a popular spot for the Flemings on Sunday afternoon when some one hundred and eighty members of the family met for a picnic lunch and reunion.

After dinner, the President, Mr. Clifford Ray, conducted the business which included the minutes of the previous reunion and the treasurer's and historian's reports. Table prizes were won by Mrs. Eugene Francis, who was the latest bride. Prize for the youngest boy at the picnic went to Larry Bird, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Bird. The youngest girl was Tina Marie White, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward White, who also received a prize. The eldest lady and gentleman present were Mr. and Mrs. A. Stevenson, 85 and 83 years of age, respectively. The person from the farthest point was Mr. Garth Timbrell, and the nearest birthday was that of Mr. Roger Reid.

The election of officers resulted in the return of the same executive as at present, with the exception of the historian's job, which was turned over to Mrs. Arthur Timbrell. The retiring historian, Mrs. Harold Francis, received a vote of thanks for her work over the past several years.

The president expressed his thanks to all those who attended the reunion and invited all back to the next picnic.

MEN'S AND BOYS' WEAR

What's wrong with me?

DEAR DORIS — I am a 17-year-old boy, not bad looking, but I have trouble with girls. I go out with them but something always happens to make them get tired of me.

One broke off with me. (We were going steady.) She has a reason but wouldn't tell me. What is wrong with me?

GIVING UP — What boy doesn't have trouble with girls?

It is the nature of teenagers to go steady, then break up, then meet somebody else, then go steady, then break up.

Sometimes a girl doesn't want to tell you that she is anxious to go out with other boys. Haven't you ever broken off with a girl yourself?

If you have learned good manners, if you keep yourself looking clean and nice, and have something interesting to talk about, you can get another girl. Don't give up.

DEAR DORIS — I am a stepmother to a nine-year-old boy. There is another stepson (12 years) and my own girl (2½ years).

The nine-year-old never laughs except when someone is physically or emotionally hurt. When our little girl fell and struck her forehead on the corner of the table, you would have thought he had never seen anything so funny. This response is not related to any specific person; I mean, not just the little girl.

Also, he almost daily brings home toys or personal belongings of other little children. When asked where he got them, he says he doesn't remember.

Do I have a reason to worry? My husband thinks not.

CONCERNED — Well, I'd worry, if he were my charge. Not so much about the thefts as about the inappropriate laughter.

Perhaps this little fellow still suffers — though he doesn't know it — from the loss of his own mother. Insecurity can take strange forms. And the best intentions can't overcome some of the trials of being a stepmother.

See a child specialist. He may spot and stop something quite upsetting. If he says all is well and clarifies how to handle these actions, that's all the better.

But don't go it alone only to be even more mystified later — and with less hope of nipping some unhappy quirk in the bud.

DEAR DORIS — I am ashamed to say that five years ago I met a man and we struck up a very close relationship. He was separated and wanted nothing better than to obtain his divorce so that we could be married.

He declared his love for me but the minute I got my divorce his feelings changed overnight. Now he wants to be friends only. He has been seeing his wife lately even though she lives common-law with another man.

I would like to know your concept of friendship because sometimes this fellow is really very attentive to me and the kids, and then drops us cold for weeks. We call each other occasionally but sometimes when I call he is very rude and very snappy. Yet he still stresses he values my friendship highly.

HARD TO TAKE — Not worth the taking either, I'd say. It was a love you couldn't believe; now it is a friendship you can't depend on.

He wants to be friendly on his own terms; but this has to be a mutual thing, or it is no real friendship at all. Better stop kidding yourself, stop torturing yourself, and look around for greener fields.

Confidential to Longing to Help — At 20 you should have some say in your future. If we didn't have students with a willingness to "put a hand in God's" and walk into the unknown, there would be no CUSO at all, nor any other grand effort to bring light to dark corners of the world.

Your father's deep love for you is at the bottom of his strong objections. Stand firm, though courteous. Thus have strong-minded fathers been won over by equally strong-minded daughters and sons for many years.

"Moira Lake News" — Cottage Cove Station at Moira Lake is a distinct advantage to the summer campers. New boats and canoes are frequently to be seen being set down here. Tuesday the train stopped and many of the young campers rushed to the station in time to see a new canoe being carefully placed on the cinder platform. It was a little beauty with dark and light wood torpedo decks and a little door in the deck. The canoe was addressed to Mr. Carl McCoy at "Dunwurkin".

Mr. Jack Foote of Madoc spent the weekend at Moira Lake, the guest of Mr. Jim Watson at Sagonaska Camp.

In China, they have been led, by the war, to feel that the pure type of Christianity is their only hope. A Chinese official was heard praying, "O God, make China like the United States". The extra-ordinary movement toward Christianity among the Chinese officials and Literati, involving the formation of numerous Bible classes in Government centres and the eager study of the deeper reasons for the political and social ideals which prevail in Great Britain and North America are a sufficient answer to the contention that the Christian propaganda has been brought to a halt, or has suffered embarrassment because of the war.

NEW POLLUTION CONTROLS ARE LAUDED BY POTTER

"Wonderful" was the reaction of Dr. R. T. Potter, MPP Quinte, to the provincial government's crack-down on pollution, announced last Friday.

"They're finally doing something", he said, commenting on regulations introduced by Ontario Minister of Energy and Resources, George Kerr.

The new regulations, claimed to make Ontario the Canadian leader in pollution control, call for devices on new cars to control exhaust gases and measures to prevent discharge of contaminants from steel mills, asphalt factories and refineries. The industrial controls must be in operation by September 30, 1970. Commercial and diesel vehicles manufactured from now on must have anti-pollution exhaust controls.

"I have a lot of confidence in Mr. Kerr", Dr. Potter added. "I have discussed the matter of pollution with him for the past one-and-one-half years. Last week, when he was in the district to open the O'Hara house, I took him around and pointed out some of the local conditions."

"I feel these regulations are just the beginning. Before long he will be cracking down on all forms of pollution."

Dr. Potter lauded Corby's as a leader in the local fight against pollution, with new control measures now being installed at its Corbyville distillery.

"But we still have a problem with Domtar (a paper manufacturer) in Trenton, and I hope Mr. Kerr will find a solution for this one", Dr. Potter added.

He said the main problem locally is water pollution, but he feels more optimistic about the situation now than he did when he first entered the legislature.

Regarding DDT, he noted that the Department of Lands and Forests has ceased using the insecticide and "we are pretty well at the stage where it will be banned for general use."

Dr. Potter said he is seriously concerned with detergents containing phosphates which added nutrients to the water, thus promoting algae growth.

"It's coming to the stage where we will have to ban them too", he said. "Until we clamp down, manufacturers won't come up with a substitute for the phosphate detergents. I'm sure they could find a substitute that won't pollute our waters if they were forced to."

The day Bunny cried

When the summer congress of the International Ice Hockey Federation ended, Bunny Ahearne, the czar of international hockey, cried. Imagine, a 69-year-old man weeping!

Ahearne sobbed: "There were cracks and breaks in my hockey family."

To those strange to the ways of the IIHF, the thought of a 69-year-old man crying, undoubtedly seems ludicrous. But few people know Irishman Ahearne, the cunning, often vulgar, and accomplished ham actor who has totalitarian power over the IIHF.

Why should a man of these liabilities rule any league, least of all a league which is tarnished with political pussy-footing 365 days a year? Why should so much power be invested in him? Why? Why? Why?

The answer, apparently, is one of simplicity:

According to various sources connected with the IIHF, the answer is that Ahearne is the only man who can keep the dove of peace flying among the 20 odd nations which are active in the IIHF. There is so much mistrust, suspicion and selfishness among the nations that they would trust no-one else, although they often are suspicious of Ahearne's unpredictable ways.

However, he is the wind which can make the sturdiest branches bend.

And, more important, he will fight for his people. And he does not have a preference for weapons; be it a stiletto or a meat cleaver.

One man from a Russian satellite country in Eastern Europe put his feelings this way: "His (Ahearne) inconsistency shouldn't fool you. He'll slaughter Austria today and give it a plum tomorrow. He cut Canada down on its plea for open competition with arguments which he used next day to give you nine pros."

The question of procedure was brought to the floor at the summer congress. It was a Swede making a point — a point which definitely rankled Ahearne.

The Swede said that the congress had voted down a proposal to allow open use of professionals, so why should the subject be put forth again? The congress had voted against allowing Canada 12 pros, but the next day it was voting whether or not to allow Canada the use of nine professionals.

The Swede said: "Yesterday we voted down the open use of professionals. Therefore, today's proposals were already answered with a negative yesterday."

Ahearne countered: "He brought up procedure 'n his argument when he improperly raised what took place yesterday. I would have Mr. Wester (the Swede) and you gentlemen know that I yield to no-one on knowledge of parliamentary procedure. I am a fellow of the Chartered Institute of Secretaries and have been for over 30 years. It represents the highest qualification one can hold in the whole wide world. But if he wishes to argue procedure with me I will

Mr. Wester declined. Eventually the vote was called for, whether or not to allow Canada the use of nine professionals in the 1970 tournament.

When the Ahearne compromise was voted on, there was a deadlock. The result was 25-25.

An apparent deadlock. But wait!

After checking "the book" to make sure of the deadlock, Ahearne quickly and calmly gave a vote in the affirmative. Has Bunny Ahearne actually changed? Is he no longer anti-Canadian?

And what did he mean by saying "this experiment will be for one year only" when he referred to the usage of nine pros by Canada in next year's tournament?

PRESENTATION MADE TO MARY AND ROMAN SCHNEIDER

Brilliant summer weather added to the pleasure of close to 100 well-wishers in the grounds of the Schneider School of Fine Arts, Actinolite, Ont., for the presentation of the Polish Golden Cross of Merit to Mary and Roman Schneider, founder-directors of the School, on Sunday, July 13th.

Professor T. Romer of McGill University, former ambassador of Poland, made the presentation in the name of the Polish Unity Council, London, England.

"In these times of great turmoil, one thing unites the people — there is one language all understand — the humanity of fine arts, painting, music, drama", he said. "We are here to honour the outstanding artistic and cultural contributions of Dr. Roman and Mary Schneider". Speaking in English and Polish, he recalled that over the years the Schneiders had survived terrors of war, separation in prison, exile, and now, in a strange new land, had found many friends and with them created a unique Canadian setting to develop fine artists in painting and ceramics.

Professor Romer, for 21 years a teacher of Romance Languages at McGill University, speaks seven languages, and was a former Polish ambassador to Japan, Soviet Russia and in London, England. He is president of the Montreal Centre of the Polish Institute of Arts and Sciences in America.

Tom G. Wrigglesworth, a founder and president of the Schneider School of Fine Arts, introduced Prof. Romer, and others taking part in the ceremonies outdoors, including Dr. Stanley Haidasz, M.P. for Parkdale, Parliamentary Secretary to the Minister of Consumer and Corporate Affairs. Hon. Ron Basford, Walter Iwanuk, noted Polish writer and president of the Toronto Branch, Polish Institute of Arts and Sciences in America; Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Gebski, who brought greetings from the Toronto Polish community; Michal Olbryski, Polish poet and dramatist; Mrs. Dorothy Pearson, president of the Mary Schneider Art Club, and Miss Gertrude Cameron, who spoke for some 400 who have made the Schneider School their "summer painting home". Greetings were received from His Excellency, Governor General Roland

V. Michener and Mrs. Michener, Hon. Gerard Palletier, Secretary of State, Mayor Wm. Dennison and Mrs. Dennison and Controller Margaret Campbell of Toronto; Bryan L. Cathcart, former Ontario Minister of Travel and Publicity; Maj.-Gen. and Mrs. A. Bruce Matthews, Mrs. Jean D. Newman, Mr. and Mrs. Russell T. Payton and T. Lempicki, patrons of the School; Miss Joicey M. Horne and Mrs. Muriel F. Spitzer, founders; Professor Watson Kirkconnell, past president of Acadia University; Marshall McLuhan and Canadian artists, Adrian Dingle, Hilton Hassell and Jack Pollock.

Among the guests from the West Wind Motel were Reeve Ken Smith, of the Twp. of Elzevir, and Mrs. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Cadwell of the Madoc Art Centre, and many others.

HONOURED AT BRIDAL SHOWERS

Prior to her marriage, Mrs. Clinton Davidson, nee Cheryl Graham, was honored by her friends with a miscellaneous shower in Belleville, at the home of Mrs. Claude Dafeo, as well as one by her office co-workers at Corby Distillers held at Sun Luck Gardens.

Queensboro Community tendered her a lovely shower of gifts; also the Cooper friends at the school house, with Mrs. Lynn McCoy as hostess.

Cheryl received many useful and lovely gifts at each of these showers.

PEACEFUL PROTEST AGAINST POLLUTION

Bill Hawthorne personally introduced Premier Roberts to his anti-pollution campaign Tuesday.

The immediate result was a colorful welcome for a cabinet team headed by the premier, as it arrived in Belleville to discuss problems with local government spokesmen.

Mr. Hawthorne, who has been waging a one-man war over water conditions at his Crystal Beach resort on Moira Lake at Madoc, was not too certain of the long-term results.

He said he wouldn't be happy until "something material" develops from his brief meeting with the premier outside Centennial Secondary School in Belleville.

The occasion had all the trappings of protest. Mr. Hawthorne marshalled his resort guests in a body down to Belleville and placed them on both sides of the school entranceway.

Everyone had a banner demanding action on water pollution. Some were clad in fancy dress provided by Mr. Hawthorne. Two of the protesters were mounted on ponies, and — for good measure — there was even a bag-piper.

Police stood easily among the demonstrators. The sergeant in charge of the guard detail earlier had a chat with Mr. Hawthorne and had been given assurances there would be no excitement.

When it came, the confrontation was calm, gentlemanly.

Mr. Roberts strolled between the placards.

Mr. Hawthorne, wearing a white pith helmet for the occasion, introduced himself. The premier said he hadn't recognized him with his hat on. There was a brief discussion, then the cabinet group passed through the school entrance.

The resort owner said Mr. Roberts told him the situation was being looked into and "they will do something about it".

Three years ago, Mr. Hawthorne claimed the premier had said the same thing to him in a letter.

"It's the same old tune", he added as the demonstration dispersed as quietly as they had protested.

IN MEMORIAM

SHAW — In loving memory of a dear husband, Wm. Shaw, who passed away five years ago, July 27, 1964. Alone, and yet not quite alone

I see his empty chair
And often in the silence
I imagine he is there.

My companion of so many years
No longer here with me

And yet, in some mysterious way,
He keeps me company.

PRICE CUT. Trade Minister Jean-Luc Pepin returned recently from Washington to announce a major collapse in world wheat prices had been averted. In a statement given to reporters outside the Commons, he said a new plateau of price levels were agreed upon, but did not elaborate. This, he said, would allow Canada and the U.S. to lower their prices of wheat and perhaps, through some subsidy changes, increase the current selling price of French and Australian wheat. — TTS Photo

WEDDING

RUNNALLS — TROTTER

On Saturday, July 5th., at 2:30 p.m., a lovely double-ring ceremony was solemnized by the Rev. W. Sedgwick, when Carolyn Paulette Trotter, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Trotter of Cooper, was united in marriage to Mr. Michael Douglas Runnalls, Madoc, Ontario, son of Mr. and Mrs. Doug Runnalls.

The wedding took place in Queensboro United Church.

The flowers of the church, white gladioli tinted pink, daisies and green fern, made a pretty setting for the ceremony and white satin bows designated the guest pews.

Mrs. Emma Reid, organist, rendered the traditional wedding music, playing "the Wedding March" at the beginning of the ceremony and the "Wedding Prayer" during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was radiantly lovely in her floor-length bridal gown of white peau de soie, featuring lily-point sleeves, Empire bodice and bateau neckline covered with French lace. It also featured a detachable train, edged with French lace. Her shoulder-length veil of tulle illusion was held by a headress of white roses. She carried a bouquet of pink roses and pink tipped 'mums.

Attending the bride as maid of honour was Mrs. Harold Ramsay, sister of the bride, attired in a floor-length Bel Mar gown featuring pale pink lace over white rayon taffeta, with square neckline and short lacy sleeves, highlighted by a dainty bow at the front and back. Soft gathers fell from the bow at the back. Her headress featured a pink band with pretty pink flowers. White shoes and gloves completed her ensemble.

The bridesmaids, Mrs. Elmer Trotter and Miss Darlene Kelly, were dressed identically to the maid of honour. They carried bouquets of white shasta 'mums, sprayed with pink, centered by pink daffodils. The charming little flower girl, Miss Rhonda Hurley, niece of the bride, was dressed in a floor-length white eyelet gown, satin ribbon distinguishing the entire bodice. Her headress was a matching pink band, featuring a pink bow. White shoes and gloves completed her ensemble. She carried a little basket of pink 'mums.

centered with pink daffodils. Mr. Robert Rogers, Belleville, friend of the groom, was best man. Ushers were Elmer Trotter, brother of the bride, and Mr. Brian Bronson, friend of the groom, of Madoc.

Following the ceremony, a delightful reception was held at Queensboro Sunday School Room, where the bridal table was of appointed white linen table cloth, centered with a three-tier wedding cake.

The bride's mother, wearing a street-length yellow rayon taffeta dress featuring an overcoat of matching lace with scalloped edges open down the front, white hat and white accessories, received the guests. She was assisted by the groom's mother, who wore a blue satin dress with an overlay of matching blue lace, blue hat and black patent accessories. They wore corsages of white 'mums.

For travelling, the bride chose a white dress with long sleeves, white accessories, and wore a corsage of red roses.

After a wedding dance at the Legion Hall, Madoc, the happy couple left for their honeymoon trip.

Since returning from the Thousand Islands, Mr. and Mrs. Mike Runnalls are residing in Madoc.

Out of town guests attended from Corbyville, Madoc, Queensboro, Cooper, Steinburg, Toronto, Belleville and Foxboro.

BURNSIDE REUNION

On Sunday, July 13th., the third annual Burnside family picnic was held at the Col. Vanderwater Conservation Park on the Moira River. Perfect summer weather and the anticipation of good fellowship lured over eighty members of the family to come from far and near.

The highlight of the day was the presentation of a large birthday cake and a bouquet of roses to Mrs. Wm. Blair, who will be celebrating her ninetieth birthday shortly. Two first cousins, Earl and Bob Burnside, voiced the warm good wishes for all of us, to which Lottie ably replied.

Regretfully, we parted late in the afternoon, with all anticipating the opportunity to meet again in August 1970.

Women are much more vulnerable than men to whiplash injury in a rear end collision, says the Ontario Safety League. Drs. Charles H. Schutt and F. Curtis Dohan have reported a study showing that in urban areas, the neck injury rate in car accidents for women is 4.8 times that of men. In non-metropolitan areas, three times as many women suffer whiplash. In many cases, neck pain and stiffness become more severe days or weeks after the collision. Inability to work lasted an average of 56 days. Properly designed headrests, doctors say, would have prevented half the whiplash injuries.

COOPER AND REMINGTON W.I.

The July meeting of Cooper-Remington W.I. was held at the Community Centre, with an attendance of twenty one adults and nine children.

The President, Mrs. Allan McCoy, opened the meeting and welcomed the members and several guests. The roll call was "What I eat for beauty and good temper", and brought some humorous answers.

After a short business period, the program was turned over to the Home Economics Convener, Mrs. Fred Stein. An excellent motto, "Happiness is like a potato salad — share it and you have a picnic", was given by Mrs. Leonard Parks. Mrs. Fred Bailey introduced and assisted the guest speaker, Mrs. Ray LaPalm of Peterboro.

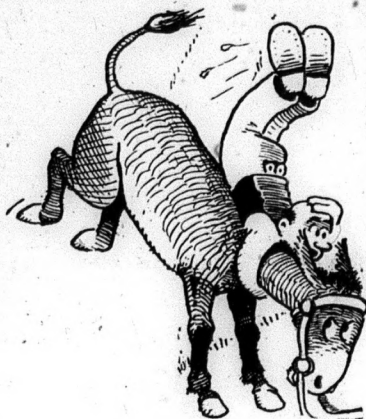

Mrs. LaPalm gave a most interesting demonstration on cake icing, showing how to decorate wedding, anniversary and birthday cakes as well as a novel way to decorate cup cakes. Several tried to do this, including the young girls present. Miss Nancy Taylor expressed our appreciation to Mrs. LaPalm and presented her with a small gift.

Lunch was served by the committee, while a penny sale was in progress and a social time was enjoyed.

Injuns on the warpath

"Bar the door, Matilda, and close them shutters! Henry, look to your flintlock! The Injuns are on the war-path!"

Let's hope it doesn't come to that, but the Indians of Canada, a quarter-million of the natives of this vast continent, have blood in their eye, whether it's a product of politics or bean wine.

And they don't need tomahawks, bows and arrows, and rusty muskets this time. They have two weapons which bring them right into the nuclear age. One is the white man's guilt complex, with which they belabor him at every opportunity. The other is the mass media, which they are using with a skill that would make a public relations man turn green.

There are some facts that have led up to the current confrontation. First of all, the Indians were victims of one of the greatest con jobs in history when the various treaties were drawn up.

Have you ever read one? They sound great, full of poetic stuff like, "As long as the rivers run to the sea and the grass grows to the sky and the mountains do not fall down... etc., etc." Then comes the crunch, in the small print. As long as the Indian stays on his reserve, and out of the white man's hair (especially the scalp), he and his children and his children's children shall receive an annual bounty from the Great White Queen across the Big Water.

For a whole Indian band, it might be 1,000 pounds sterling. Not cash annually, but only the interest thereon. Figure out sometime what the interest is on 1,000 pounds sterling in 1969. Yes, inflation has caught up with the Indian, too.

Treaty Day, according to old-timers, used to be a real fair at the reserves. Each Indian family received its share of the loot and avaricious merchants gathered from miles around to separate the Indian and his treaty money as quickly as possible. Today, he might be able to buy a few bottles of wine.

Second, the Indian culture, or what's left of it, is quite dissimilar to that of the White man's. It is based on communal, rather than cut-throat society. The romantic refers back to the "noble red man". The pragmatist calls him "a shiftless bum." Neither is anywhere near the truth. He is a human being. He's neither red nor any more noble than the rest of us. Third, the paradox exists that the Indian has special privileges (medical care, free education, no taxes on the reserve, etc.) and yet he is underprivileged (inferior housing and education, plus plain old discrimination, social and economic).

And now, the Federal government, with a cold logic that seems to seep down from Mr. Trudeau, says, "Put up or shut up. If you aren't happy about the way we run things, do it yourself." This, after years of treating reserves with all the largesse and benevolence usually associated with an orphanage.

The Federal government proposes to dump the Indian problem on the provincial governments and the Indians themselves, all in the course of five years, then fold its tent and steal off into the night. The provincial governments want the Indian problem like they want the Black Plague. So do the Indians.

For the latter, the Canadian government's new policy is a smoke-screen to cover failure. For the young Indians, dissolution of the reserves is like burning your boats behind you. For the middle-aged and elderly, it is terrifying.

Indian leader Wilmer Nadjivon of Cape Croker put it succinctly, if over-simplistically, when he said the new legislation would allow an Indian to sell his property for two bottles of wine. That doesn't solve a problem. It creates one.

The Indians don't want assimilation. They want help to get on their feet and some redress for 200 years of being considered second-class Canadians.

Some reserves are worthless, mere slum areas. Some are extremely valuable as potential resort areas. How does everybody get a fair share if these lands are handed back to the Indians themselves, for disposal as they see fit?

You're not going to settle that one in five years, Pierre Elliott.

ELDORADO AND BANNOCKBURN W.I.

The Bannockburn and Eldorado Women's Institute members, together with other ladies, numbering nearly forty, enjoyed a bus trip to points of interest in Belleville on Wednesday, July 16th. The regular July meeting was dispensed with.

The Franklin bus left Eldorado at 9:00 a.m. A tour of Black Diamond Cheese plant was scheduled, but as all tours are cancelled at this time, the hour was spent browsing around the shopping plaza.

At eleven, the ladies were taken to the Hastings County Museum and were shown through the rooms, with those in charge explaining the origin of many of the exhibits. Of particular interest was the former Dr. Paul's lighting exhibits, which number over three hundred.

At noon the bus journeyed to Zwicks Island, where all enjoyed a bounteous dinner, including four buckets of Kentucky Fried Chicken.

After dinner, they were taken to Hastings Manor, where they enjoyed a tour by one of the staff. Many enjoyed a hand-shake with relatives and friends.

At three o'clock all arrived at the Etomology Research Building (known as the bug house) and were divided into groups, each having one of the staff show the different work carried on. A film was also shown there.

Before leaving Belleville, the ladies went to the Corby Park to view the magnificent rose garden.

The August Women's Institute meeting will be held in the hall on August 20th., at 8:00 p.m. The topic will be historical research and will be convened by Mrs. Ken Bateman. We hope that there will be a good attendance, after two months' recess.

1968 DROWNING STATISTICS SUMMARY

There were 1,186 people drowned in Canada last year, according to the latest Red Cross report. Included in this figure are 22 deaths which occurred in the Northwest Territories. This is the first time drownings in this area have been incorporated in Red Cross statistics.

While the overall figure of 1,186 shows a 5.49 per cent decrease on the previous year's total of 1,255 drownings, the Red Cross believes that a high percentage of these deaths occurred through accidents which could have been avoided. Another cause for concern is that the percentage of drownings of persons (mostly young men) in the age group of 13 to 33 years old, has increased over the previous years.

In an effort to reduce the annual drowning toll, the Red Cross Water Safety Service is aimed at helping Canadians learn how to avoid the hazards of water and enjoy safe, healthy water activities. Last year, of the 654,565 people enrolled in Red Cross Water Safety programs, over 14,000 were active in leadership capacities.

The number of drownings associated with boating, swimming and falling into the water decreased by seven percent in 1968. Although accidents of this kind still account for over 50 per cent in 1968. Although accidents drownings, the Red Cross believes that the decrease is due in part to its Survival Swimming Course which was introduced in 1966. This course is designed to teach the minimum skills needed to deal with emergency situations which occur when a person finds himself in trouble in the water.

Six provinces show decreases in drownings over 1967: Manitoba, 27.5 per cent; Newfoundland, 14.9 per cent;

Nova Scotia, 33.8 per cent; Ontario, 52 per cent; Quebec, 11.6 per cent; and Saskatchewan, 11.6 per cent.

Three provinces had the same number of deaths by drownings as in 1967: Alberta, 43; British Columbia, 221; and Prince Edward Island, 16.

The number of drownings in New Brunswick, increased by 40 per cent and in the Northwest Territories, by 22 per cent.

HALF-CENTURY OF LIGHT. This light bulb, being examined by 76-year-old Arthur Plumpton, brings back memories of a 55-year association with Ontario Hydro. This bulb has been in Canada since 1918 and was manufactured by Philips in Holland. It has given 51 years of service. This also marks the beginning of a new line of complete home and industrial products to be introduced in Canada by Philips, one of the largest light bulb manufacturers in the world. — TTS Photo

Dief is always Dief

One thing about John Diefenbaker, he can debate both sides of any point.

The former Prime Minister, who will go down in history as one of Canada's greatest debaters in the House of Commons, has been accused of many things by the opposition, in and outside the Conservative Party. But no one can ever accuse "The Chief" of refusing to take a stand, particularly when he's in opposition.

The concessions to Quebec made by Liberal Prime Minister Lester Pearson and continued by Pierre Trudeau have continually come under Diefenbaker's scorn. In fact, the real anti-Dief block claim his anti-French stand ruined the Conservatives in the last election, forgetting that it was Robert Stanfield, the original stone face, against Trudeau's magic. In fact, Dief as leader probably would have won as many seats for the Conservatives as Stanfield — certainly more in the West, if less in the Maritimes. It just wasn't the PCs' year.

It is refreshing to see that the old warrior is still at it, making speeches on everything from the monarchy to draft dodgers to recognition of Red China.

The Queen couldn't ask for a better watchdog on the rights of the monarchy in Canada than John Diefenbaker. The government only has to make a move to slip away some of the royal trimmings on federal buildings, and Dief is letting the world know.

Recently in Kansas City, the 73-year-old politician was called to give the opening address to the Order of De Moly International Conference. This association of 168,000 members apparently knew it could count on Dief to keep the delegates awake.

He started off by attacking the Canadian government for welcoming U.S. draft dodgers to Canada.

"As far as I am concerned, if these people are not prepared to defend their own country then they are of no use to Canada. It is the right of everyone to be able to disagree with his own government's policy. But when a person leaves his country when asked to defend it, he has a complete misunderstanding of freedom."

Without passing for a second breath, Dief went on to say how he personally opposed the U.S. involvement in Vietnam.

"I think inspection and advice teams like those of President Eisenhower should have continued."

Having said that, Dief continued: "But I think it would mean a complete collapse of anti-Communist forces in Asia for the United States to withdraw now. You have committed yourself and there should be no retreat."

The circle had been completed.

Again on Red China, he showed his amazing ability to see the same issue two ways.

It was the Diefenbaker government that took credit for starting the big wheat deals with Red China, arranged by Agriculture Minister Alvin Hamilton.

The American press and right-wing politicians attacked the Canadian sales as a threat to world peace. How could you feed and strengthen your potential enemy, they warned. Only a few years earlier, the Red Chinese Army was battling Canadian soldiers in Korea.

To Dief, the politician, it meant money for Canada and more important, money for Western grain farmers, hard hit by rising costs and slumping prices plus bumper crops. Business is business, he said, and beside "the only way to break down the walls of Communism is with trade."

He correctly pointed out that the U.S. now trades with many Communist nations.

"What was criticized six years ago as heresy is now a cornerstone of diplomacy."

But this didn't mean to Dief that we should recognize Red China, certainly not at the expense of the corrupt Formosa puppet.

"That," thundered Dief, "would be the most heinous thing possible."

WEDDING

DAVIDSON — GRAHAM

St. Andrew's United Church, Queensboro, was the scene of the recent double ring ceremony when Cheryl Lillian Graham exchanged wedding vows with Mr. Robert Clinton Davidson. Officiating was Rev. W. Sedgwick. Rendering appropriate nuptial selections was Mr. Stanley Hawthorne of Madoc and soloist was Miss Nancy Thomson of Toronto, a cousin of the bride, who sang "The Wedding Prayer" before the ceremony and "O Promise Me" during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride looked lovely wearing a full-length gown of silk organza with a Chantilly lace bodice in empire style and long sleeves ending in lily points at the wrists. A Moo collar, edged with seed pearls and a set-in chapel train of matching lace completed her gown. The tiara headpiece of small flowers and seed pearls held the shoulder-length veil of tulle illusion. She carried a cascade of pink sweetheart roses.

Miss Donna Graham of Queensboro, sister of the bride was maid of honor and wore a floor length gown of mauve fortrel, featuring Empire style and bell sleeves with matching wedding band head piece and white accessories.

Bridesmaids were Misses Marlene, Jenine and Bonny Parks, all sisters of the bride, and dressed identically to the maid of honor.

Little Miss Patti Anne Dunford, niece of the groom, was flower girl in full-length gown of white fortrel, in Empire style and bell sleeves. She wore a wedding band headpiece to match. All the brides' attendants carried Boblay Bells of bright yellow 'mums.

Mr. Keith Morgan of Madoc was groomsman, while the guests were ushered by Mr. Tom Predmore, Mr. Dale Graham and Mr. Glen Graham of Cooper.

Master Larry Parks of Queensboro, brother of the bride, was ring bearer.

For the wedding reception held in Cooper Institute Hall, the bride's mother received the guests wearing a yellow rayon crepe sheath dress with white nylon lace coat and scalloped front and white accessories. She wore a corsage of aqua tinted 'mums.

Mrs. Russel Dunford, sister of the groom, assisted wearing a powder blue dress of satin backed faille with white accessories. She wore a corsage of yellow 'mums.

For the wedding trip to Niagara Falls and Eastern United States, the bride chose a yellow sheath with lace overlay, trimmed with seed pearls on the collar and white accessories. She wore a corsage of mint green tinted carnations.

Out of town guests were from Toronto, Oshawa, Belleville, Creemore and Marmora.

The couple are residing in Madoc.

WEDDING

COLLINS — WICKETT

Sharon Margaret Wickett and Roy Charles Collins were married recently in St. John the Baptist Church, Peterborough, by the Rev. Raymond Heferman.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Blakely, and he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Collins, all of Peterborough.

The bride wore a toe-length A-line gown of stiffened taffeta and organza with insets of lace and rhinestones and pearls. The hemline and the chapel train were bordered with lace motifs.

A cluster of satin and organza roses held the shoulder-length veil and she carried a bouquet of stephanotis and white roses.

Miss Ruth Beamish was the maid of honour and the bridesmaids were Mrs. Jack Evans and Mrs. Peter McCarthy, sister of the groom. Miss Jane Lee Blakely was flower girl.

They wore pink, green and yellow floor-length empire-style gowns with floor-length trains. They wore roses in their hair and carried cypress bouquets of tinted 'mums.

Peter McCarthy was best man. Larry Wickett, brother of the bride, and Leonard Collins, brother of the groom, were ushers. Steve Collins, brother of the groom, was ring bearer.

A reception was held at the Kawartha Golf and Country Club. The couple will reside at 572 Wolfe Street, Peterborough.

It's Costing You Money

Last year, 353 persons were convicted of littering Ontario highways. In addition, many were stopped by police and warned about the fine for littering. But it costs you money either way. Ontario taxpayers pay the $970,000 tab it costs to keep the highways clean. Keep a litter bag in your car and help keep Ontario clean.

The children, Kimberly, Paul and Michael, enjoyed being on the farm and especially seeing the horses.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Andrew of Caniffon visited the Bryden family on Saturday.

Mrs. Ron Marwell visited her parents last week; also her aunts, Mrs. G. Lowry, Mrs. T. Dafeo and uncles, Ray and Harvey Bryden.

Mr. Ray Bryden and sister, Mrs. T. Dafeo, were in Tweed on Friday. Miss G. Lowry, who had visited her granddaughter and family for a week, returned home with them.

Mr. and Mrs. Larry Wilson, Morgan and Duncan, Carleton Place, accompanied by Larry's mother, Mrs. Dorothy Wilson, St. John's, N.B., and friends from Halifax, N.S., were recent visitors of the Bryden family.

BREAKDOWNS CAUSED BY GAS SHORTAGE

A recent study of a major Ontario highway indicated that almost a third of all breakdowns on this road near Toronto are caused by the running out of gas.

If you run out of gas and you're driving a standard transmission car, the Garage Operators' Association of Ontario remind you that it is always possible to move a car with standard transmission off the highway should it stall in the traffic lanes by use of the battery alone. Put your car in low gear and, holding the starter in 'On' position, steer your car to a safe resting place.

It can also be noted that it is as expensive to drive on the top half of a tank of gas as it is on the bottom half.

Just before and just after sundown is perhaps the most dangerous time of day for drivers, reports the Garage Operators Association. Drivers are in special danger if the car ahead and the car behind are using headlights and your car is not illuminated. The space you occupy may look like a safe gap to either a pedestrian or another driver wishing to cross the highway from a side road. BE SAFE AND BE SEEN. Use your headlights freely, and be certain they are in proper working order and fully adjusted so as not to blind oncoming drivers.

The Garage Operators' Association also reminds drivers never to try and pass another car if there is the slightest doubt in your mind that you have room enough to succeed. If you are attempting to overtake and pass a car travelling 45 miles per hour and you are travelling 60 miles per hour, it is like passing 40 standing cars parked bumper to bumper.

Unless you are certain that your car is in A-1 shape, bear in mind the possibility of an engine malfunction at a critical period in passing that could strand you immediately in the path of an oncoming car with insufficient power to get out of the way in time.
